

Area Residents Favor President's Plans

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — President Richard Nixon's proposed trip to Red China sometime during the next ten months is being greeted with great acclaim locally, according to a Daily Freeman sampling of people Friday in the Uptown Kingston area.

Of the 15 persons interviewed not one voiced disapproval although each had his own reasons for applauding the move.

Marie Gorsline of the Town of Ulster called the trip "a good decision . . . the only thing it can do is help us as long as Nixon is guaranteed safety."

"I'm for it," said Marletown Justice Robert S. Diamond who also volunteered that he would like to see Red China admitted to the United Nations. "It's a conference table and many things can be solved around it instead of going to war."

William Eckert of Ellenville said, "I think it is good. Anyone as important as she (Red China) is, has to be recognized."

Susie Pod of Palenville claimed mixed emotions saying she felt the idea is good from a public relations standpoint but she worried, as Mrs. Gorsline did, that the President's safety might be in question.

Recalling President Nixon's visit to South America, Mrs. Pod suggested that perhaps Red China might also not receive him well.

The idea that a friendship with Red China might split the Soviet Union-Red China relationship open appealed to several men interviewed.

Clarence A. Anderson of West Hurley feels the trip will provide "a nice buffer between Russia and Red China . . . If we could get those two countries to fight, we could sit back for awhile," he suggested.

Frank Miller of Hurley said that if Nixon hadn't made the proposal, we would have more trouble with Russia. Now

With better communication, we will get more things first hand," he said adding, "I just hope he, (Nixon) doesn't get taken in."

"I'm for it," said Harold Finkle of Kingston. "The world is getting so small we should do our best to be friends with all nations regardless of political views. We should keep an open mind regarding world trade and a long time future."

He said that in order for everyone to be working during this century, we have to create a foreign market.

Percy Gazlay of Saugerties said, "I'm all for it. I think it is the most hopeful thing that has happened."

Larry Scanlon of Kingston called the move "pretty progressive" and "totally unexpected" considering how large and impressive Red China is.

Judge John B. Sterley of Kingston said the President of the United States is to be commended for any effort he makes with the purpose in mind of attempting to effect world-wide peace, provided those who he deals with are equally desirous of an honorable and lasting peace.

"It will show the people that the U.S. is not afraid of Red China," Deputy Sheriff Frank Berardi suggested, and "it might just shorten the war."

Selma Wouda of Ellenville agreed saying "If Nixon could make peace, our boys could come home . . . he should do so."

Capitol Hill Response Good To Nixon's Proposed Visit

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif.

(AP) — President Nixon is keeping Secretary of State William P. Rogers at hand for talks any foreign diplomats might seek on the President's plan to visit Communist China.

A source said, Rogers will be at his Washington desk Monday keeping in touch with foreign governments.

The President also is moving to buttress congressional backing for his mission, scheduling a conference in Washington on Monday with Senate and House leaders from both parties. He also has called a Cabinet meeting that day. Nixon is returning to Washington Sunday after a 12-day stay here.

Initial response from Capitol Hill has been overwhelmingly favorable and the plan has drawn widespread applause from Western nations, except for Nationalist China which lodged a strong protest.

In his dramatic radio-television speech Thursday night announcing plans to go to Peking to seek "normalization" of relations with mainland China, Nixon said the trip would be made before May. A White House source said Friday that was an outside date and the trip probably would be made much sooner.

The source discussing Rogers' plans—he declined to be identified—said the secretary of state placed personal phone calls to some 19 foreign ambassadors in Washington in the hours just before Nixon's announcement Thursday night.

Nationalist China's envoy was the first to receive the advance word, the informant said.

Among others contacted was a diplomatic representative of the Soviet Union, he related.

The source said "We know that making this decision would hurt some old friends. It is always difficult to break away from a well established pattern, which at least has the advantage that its framework has become very familiar. It forced us to rethink the whole nature of the world in which policy had been conducted more or less as if the People's Republic of China did not exist."

It was evident that the "old friend" uppermost in the source's mind was Nationalist China.

Nationalist China said it was surprised. "We are most reluctant to see a friendly country being duped by the Communists into creating a tragedy more serious than the loss of the Chinese mainland," said Premier O. K. Yen.

Meanwhile, according to United Press International, President Nixon will discuss peace in Vietnam as one of the "foremost immediate" topics he will take up with Red Chinese leaders in Peking. White House officials confirm.

Communist China is the main war arsenal for North Vietnam and the recent moves toward better Sino-American relations obviously open new diplomatic avenues for ending the war.

A ranking White House aide, talking to newsmen Friday refused to speculate on what impact Nixon's visit would have on the Vietnam War. But he said the main purpose of the visit is to seek a more peaceful world, and added:

"In a quest for peace in the world, peace in Southeast Asia has to be a foremost, immediate objective."

READING ABOUT IT—John Duffy of Elmont, Long Island, has an over-the-shoulder peeper behind him as he, his wife, and their daughter pause in London's Parliament Square to read newspaper account of the announcement of President Richard Nixon's projected visit to the Chinese mainland. Duffy, commenting on Nixon's acceptance of the invitation to visit the Asian state, said he was amazed and didn't think the president "would have to go to them." He said Nixon's visit would seem like appeasement. (UPI CABLEPHOTO)

Seek Missing Boy in Adirondacks

Mountain Specialists Join Search

NEWCOMB, N.Y. (AP) — A the week-long search for 8-year-old Douglas Legg in dense Adirondack Mountain wilderness.

The 32-man group from the famed Sierra Madre Search and Rescue Team was due in this remote logging community today after a flight from Los Angeles.

The family agreed to pay the round-trip air fare, estimated at about $9,000. The boy's father, William Legg, is a science supervisor at a high school in a Syracuse suburb. A great-uncle, Crandall Melvin Sr., owner of the wilderness estate where the boy is lost, is a retired Syracuse banker who converted profits from a successful farming operation into a banking and real estate fortune.

Sweeps by hundreds of searchers and the use of modern and traditional techniques from infrared photography to bloodhounds have yielded only traces of the boy's trail.

Dougie, a 76-pound third grader, disappeared last Saturday while walking near the lodge on the 13,000-acre estate north of Newcomb. Searchers have found a few footprints, and bloodhounds picked up a scent but the trail ended. Infrared mapping of the search area, which might have picked up "hot spots" from the body heat of a human, have revealed only a bear's sleeping place, Helicopter and Jeep patrols have been similarly unavailing.

Today's search party included nine state forest personnel and 12 men on horseback.

The Sierra Madre team, formed in 1932, subjects each new member to a one-year probationary period that includes intensive instruction in mountain climbing, map reading, Laboratory in Pasadena.

first aid and wilderness survival.

In June, 1970, the team spent six days hunting for a Boy Scout missing in mountainous country northwest of Los Angeles. The boy was found unconscious but survived, and the episode later was presented on national television in a program entitled "A Search for Billy."

Occupations of the team members range from salesmen to utility company workers to engineers at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena.

'Angry Mayor' Views Oil-Soaked Beaches

New York City's John V. Lindsay is shown in a helicopter on a flight over the oil-drenched beaches off Coney Island and Staten Island. A Navy tanker accidentally dumped oil off the coast on Wednesday. Cleanup operations have continued since. Back on the ground, or rather, under the ground, a subway fire on Friday injured 25 persons and forced hundreds more to flee in the darkness to safety. Mayor Lindsay labeled the state-run Metropolitan Transit Authority "incompetent" and announced he would begin his own investigation of the incident. "You're looking at a very angry mayor," he told newsmen at the scene of the fire. (UPI Telephoto)

Greene County Tragedies

Two Men Die in Plane Crash

By JON POWERS

HUNTER — The badly mutilated bodies of two Fulton County men were recovered early today by a state police rescue team that labored through the desolate and rocky Hunter Mountain region of Greene County after a stricken twin-engine plane plummeted to the ground late Friday night.

A witness to the tragedy told police that the plane, with one of its two engines dead, was apparently limping over the Hunter Mountain area in a desperate attempt to reach level ground. The witness, identified by Leeds state police as Frank Benjamin of Lanesville, said the small plane then went into a spin and dove straight down into a wooded area.

Police labored for several hours to reach the site of the crash. Shortly after midnight, they discovered the bodies of the plane's pilot and a passenger.

The dead men were identified as Verl Miller, 32, of Mayfield, and David Opalka, 32, of Gloversville. Miller was the pilot, said police. Their bodies were transported to the Greene County morgue, Frederick Decker, a Greene County coroner, continued the investigation.

The crash occurred in the Town of Hunter, near Lanesville, Miller and Opalka, according to police, had taken off Friday night from Caldwell-Wright Airport at Teterboro, N. J. Their reported destination was Johnstown, Fulton County. Miller was the plane's owner.

The Piper Apache plane, said police, apparently encountered engine trouble as it flew in an easterly direction over the popular ski resort at Hunter Mountain. The crash occurred at 9 p.m.

The craft crashed into the wooded area on its back, said police. Debris from the plane was spread over a wide area, and both the pilot and passenger were killed instantly.

Five troopers formed the rescue team that reached the crash site.

Miller's address was given as 34 West Main Street.

Murder Charge Filed Against Catskill Youth

CATSKILL

A 16-year-old Catskill youth has been charged with first degree murder after his arrest Friday night by village police, who say that he stabbed another 16-year-old through the heart with a scout knife.

Alphonse Jackson of 55 Hop-O-Nose, an apartment project in Catskill, was ordered held without bail in the Greene County Jail.

Village police reported today that Jackson was arrested shortly after the alleged incident took place. Police said the youth surrendered quietly and later confessed to the crime.

Police, meanwhile, are continuing their investigation into the murder. They said no motive for the knife slaying has yet been determined.

Jackson is accused of stabbing Ivery Lee (Sonny) Arnold Jr. of 31 Hop-O-Nose, during an alleged altercation on Bridge Street in Catskill. Police said they have not been able to determine why the two youths were fighting.

Jackson allegedly pulled a scout knife on Arnold and stabbed him once in the chest, with the blade of the knife piercing the youth's heart. Ar-resters of the Catskill Police Department was rushed to the Greene County Memorial Hospital in investigation.

Heavy Fighting in Central Highlands

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese command today reported heavy fighting Friday in the Central Highlands and northern parts of the country.

The northern front was still today as typhoon Jean, the worst July weather in 20 years, swung in from the Tonkin Bay and headed for Hanoi.

A military spokesman said allied troops killed 141 Communist soldiers in battles scattered across the country Friday. The only allied casualty reported was an American helicopter crewman, wounded when his OH6 "Loach" was shot down.

A U.S. military spokesman said the observation craft, the 1,978th lost in Vietnam since 1961, was brought down Friday in the A Shau Valley, four miles northwest of A Luoi. The valley is a major Communist route into the northern provinces.

The big new typhoon dropped six to nine inches of rain along the coastal plains and mountains in the northern sector and brought air and ground operations to a halt. Weathermen said it was about 130 miles east of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating North and South Vietnam and was expected to hit Hanoi Sunday.

Spokesmen said South Vietnamese killed 30 Communists in three scattered fights, in the North, and another 15 in the vicinity of Firebases 5 and 6, opposite the junction of the Lao, Cambodian and Vietnamese borders in the Central Highlands.

They also killed 14 in a fight south of Pleiku City and just west of the old special forces camp at Fiei Me, on a main Communist infiltration route. Eighteen other guerrillas were killed in the Mekong Delta.

U.S. helicopter gunships killed nine guerrillas deep in the U Minh Forest, along the southwestern tip of Vietnam, while supporting South Vietnamese 21st Infantry Division troops on a sweep of the swamp-and-jungle area.

South Korean forces reported killing a total of 55 guerrillas in scattered clashes in the Central Coast provinces of Binh Dinh, Phu Yen, and Khanh Hao.

The South Vietnamese also reported clashes to the west and southwest of Hue and 50 miles south of Da Nang. Spokesmen said 14 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed and one prisoner taken.

Bodies of Three Coal Miners Located by Rescue Workers

ASHERS FORK, Ky. (UPI)—Rescue workers early today found the bodies of three coal miners trapped and killed by a slate fall in a small mine in this southeastern Kentucky community.

The bodies of Oscar Saylor, 22, Hima, Ky., and Frank Gibson, 21, and Ernest Harris, 26, both of Manchester, Ky., were seen through cracks, buried under five feet of slate in a shaft of the Hilmar Coal Co. mine.

Saylor and Gibson, both single, had been hired the day before the accident, while Harris, married and the father of two, was hired only last week. About 50 workers, many of them coal miners living in neighboring towns who volunteered their services, worked in shifts, five at a time, in an effort to bring out the bodies. They were not expected to cut through the rock to the bodies until this afternoon.

Officials said there were at least three separate cave-ins. Gibson and Saylor were trapped in the first, about 150 feet from the opening of the mine and only eight feet from the face, where the coal is cut.

Liggan to Run As Legislator; Won't Campaign

ROSENDALE
John J. Liggan, chosen by the Ulster County Democratic Committee on Vacancies as the candidate for County Legislature representing Dist. 7 (Rosedale, Esopus), announced today that he would not be an active candidate for election in November.

Saying he is highly honored to have been given the nomination, Liggan, who has served as the Rosendale Democratic vice chairman and was a candidate for councilman several years ago, said that recently he has had no thoughts of political office.

"I appreciate the confidence of those who placed my name in nomination, but I do not believe I will do any active campaigning for election. I will leave it all in the hands of Him, who has become the guide of my life. If I am elected, I will serve to the best of my abilities," he concluded.

Man Arrested, Charged With Growing 'Pot'

HIGH FALLS
An alert deputy sheriff placed a 22-year-old High Falls man under arrest Friday after he noticed several marijuana plants growing in a window box of the man's home.

Deputy Christopher Jones was serving papers in the High Falls area Friday when he stopped to ask for directions at the home of Victor Wazewski on Mossy Brook Road. While inside the house, Jones spotted seven marijuana plants growing in the window box.

Wazewski was charged with sixth degree criminal possession of a dangerous drug and illegally growing marijuana, a violation of the public health law. He pleaded guilty to both counts before Town of Marbletown Justice Robert Diamond and paid fines totaling $250. The arrest was made at 6 p.m. Friday.

Officials said Harris ran back to the opening in search of help, and went back to the slatefall with Ernest Horton, mine supervisor. Harris was injured in a second cave-in, and buried in a third cave-in that injured Horton in the shoulder. Leslie Marcom, owner of the mine, said the cave-in was caused by a mud seam—a

Obscenity Case Set for Monday In City Court

KINGSTON
Appearing before City Judge Hubert A. Richter Friday on charges of obscenity second degree in connection with a raid at The Mid-town Book Store, 670 Broadway, the proprietor and an employee received adjournments until Monday to obtain counsel.

Charles Soltyz, 29, of Box 58, described as the operator of the store, and Daniel Villa LoBos, 26, of Route 4, Box 103, both of Lake Katrine, were remanded to the county jail in lieu of $1,000 pending their reappearance in Court on Monday. Soltyz was later released on bail, police said.

Acting Police Chief Julius Glassman, who directed the raid with Detective Albert Hutton and Joseph Feraca on Thursday, estimated the retail value of articles confiscated by police at more than $4,000. Seized by the raiding party, which also included uniformed patrolmen, were quantities of picture playing cards, 234 rolls of film, magazines, newspapers, a projector, jigsaw puzzles and others, some made of rubber and plastic.

Conviction for obscenity second degree could result in one year in jail and/or $1,000 fine, it was reported.

Guilty Plea To Drug Charge

RHINEBECK
Robert Owen, 16, of Rhinebeck, was arrested by state police on Route 9 in the Town of Rhinebeck at 4 a.m. Saturday and charged with sixth degree possession of a dangerous drug, marijuana, as the result of a routine traffic check. Owen was arraigned before Town of Rhinebeck Justice DeWitt Gurnell and fined $50 after pleading guilty to the charge. He was held in the Dutchess County Jail pending payment of the fine.

The arrest was made by Trooper C. E. Hallenbeck.

Arab Leaders Meet On Jordan Fighting

By United Press International

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt and leaders from Libya, Syria and Sudan met today at the Mediterranean summer resort of Mersa Matruh to discuss the renewed fighting in Jordan between troops and guerrillas and the Middle East crisis in general, political sources in Cairo said.

The sources said the talks in Mersa Matruh, about 155 miles west of Alexandria, began Thursday. Meeting with Sadat were Premier Col. Moammar el-Khadafy of Libya, Vice President Mahmoud el-Ayyoubi of Syria and Revolution Command Council member Zein el-Abedeen Abdel Kader of The Sudan.

The semi-official Middle East News Agency said the meeting today lasted 75 minutes but gave no details of what was discussed. Nor was any information available on the earlier talks.

In Israel, Foreign Minister Abba Eban said Friday night he believed the United States has "decided in principle" to give Prime Minister Golda Meir the additional warplanes requested in June.

Eban said in a military radio broadcast from Jerusalem that Israel needs the F4 Phantom jet fighter-bomber to keep pace with Egypt's rapid arms buildup and is waiting anxiously for word from Washington on when the planes will arrive.

In Amman, UPI correspondent John Bonar reported King Hussein's army is forcing the remnants of the Palestinian guerrilla movement in Jordan into a narrow strip of land. There, he said, the army will be able to control the commandos' movements and supplies shipments. President Anwar Sadat of Egypt will outline the next stage of the Arabs' conflict with Israel next Friday in a speech to the National Congress of the Arab Socialist Union, the Cairo newspaper Akhbar El Yom said today. The newspaper said Sadat will "explain the developments of the political and military situation and define the guidelines of the next stage of the battle."

Eban said he believes the Nixon administration still favors a balance of arms between Israel and the Arabs, which has shifted to the Egyptian side with fresh military supplies from the Soviet Union. The Egyptians got the new arms under the 15-year friendship and cooperation treaty they signed with the Soviets on May 27.

"I am of the opinion there is a decision already in principle" on Israel's military request, Eban said. "In other words, when the President reiterates that the balance of forces must be preserved, the situation is such that there is no argument in principle between us, but a discussion (is needed) about how and at what pace to implement this principle."

Eban also called again for direct Arab-Israeli contacts.

Piece With A Lot of Music

Work on New Paltz Play

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ — A work in progress at State University College, New Paltz, has the working title "A Great Hoss Pistol" but no category into which it can be placed. According to Omar Shapli, the director of Section 10 which is evolving the play, and Bill Bolcom, who is composing and co-ordinating the music for the show, it is not an opera, nor an operetta, nor a musical. In the words of Bolcom, it is "a piece with a lot of music in it." The play centers around the Hamilton-Burr controversy, the bitter personality clash that marked the formation of our country, and resulted in Aaron Burr slaying Alexander Hamilton in a duel in 1804 and Burr's subsequent disgrace.

The idea for the production was Bolcom's, who became interested in the dispute through a descendant of Hamilton's. He broached the idea to Shapli of creating a theatrical production based on it. Shapli says he thought the idea was "terrible" to begin with, but became enthused over it after further consideration.

The play will rely heavily on original sources, and much of the text of the play will be authentic. But though the play will be about a period in history, it will not be an "historical play," according to Shapli.

Shapli says an "historical play" has "the odd effect of making the audience believe no such event could have occurred." Shapli's play will have contemporary costumes and design, and the dialogue not taken from original sources will avoid the stilted period effect which makes many historical pieces seem so lifeless.

The music, as coordinated by Bolcom, will come from "every possible source," from Brahms' Fourth to a period opera by Dr. Samuel Arnold titled "Who Killed Cock Robin?"

A portion of the music will be Bolcom's original compositions. Though Hamilton and Burr are the two main characters, they were inextricably bound up with Thomas Jefferson according to Shapli, and this relationship will occupy much of the play.

The play will not be avant garde, but rather written for a general audience. Eventually Shapli intends to put the play on with his present company in New York.

Section 10 is giving a presentation of their material Friday at McKenna Theatre at 7:30 p.m. at the college. This will be the second of a series of such presentations. These offer a chance to the public to trace the development of a theatrical work. Shapli says they will present both material presented before and new material at these sessions, open to the public with no charge.

Other presentations will be Friday, July 30 and Thursday, Aug. 12. As with Friday's presentation, the public is invited free of charge.

Intoxicated Drivers

VADISON, Wis. (UPI)—Blood alcohol tests taken on 142 drivers killed in motor vehicle accidents in Wisconsin during the first five months of 1971 revealed that 38 per cent were intoxicated.

The Division of Health said Friday that of the drivers killed, 88 or 62 per cent had some alcohol in the blood and that 54, or 38 per cent were at or above the presumptive level of intoxication.

Children may register on any of the program days and those who have already registered will not have to register again.

Hurley Shifts Program Site

HURLEY — Due to increased enrollment the Town of Hurley West Hurley summer recreation program has been transferred to the Hidden Valley Recreation Center.

More than 90 children participated in opening day at the JCC camp and facilities were not adequate for such a large number.

The program at Hidden Valley Center will be Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. and will include all recreational activities such as swimming, softball, volleyball. Pick up and drop off points will remain the same — West Hurley children at the West Hurley firehouse and Hurley children at the Hurley Reformed Church. Since there are two buses, both groups will leave at approximately 12:30 p.m. and return 4:30 p.m.

With the program now on a three day a week basis there is a possibility of continuing it longer than the original four week schedule. Continued participation will determine the length of the program.

Children may register on any of the program days and those who have already registered will not have to register again.

City Rec Department Receives $3,834 From N.Y.

KINGSTON — The Kingston Recreation Department has received almost $4,000 in previously unbudgeted funds from the New York State

Division for Youth, Andrew J. Murphy III, Superintendent of Parks and Recreation, said today. Murphy said the Recreation Department has received $3,834.40 from the state. The funds had initially been cut from Governor Rockefeller's first budget, but later restored by the Legislature.

Under the state aid formula, Kingston receives 40 cents for every youth under 16 years of age residing in the city. The city has received the same amount for the past five years, including this year, because the figures are based on the 1960 census.

Murphy said the money will be put into the department's general fund, and will be used to help operate the overall city program. Since the department's budget for this year is in the $200,000 neighborhood, the additional $3,800 will not contribute markedly to the recreation program, although Murphy said, "It will make things a little easier."

It was also learned that the Juvenile Aid Division of the Kingston Police Department received funds from the Division of Youth that had previously been cut from the state budget. The Juvenile Aid Division received $3,335.10, on a formula of 35 cents for every youth under 16 years of age. The Juvenile Aid Division handles all cases involving youthful criminal offenders.

Investment Tax Credit Asked Again by Fish

KINGSTON — Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. introduced legislation this week calling for the reinstatement of the seven per cent investment tax credit as a way to strengthen the economy, and stimulate business growth and employment.

"After a careful study, it seems clear that a reinstatement of the investment tax credit will encourage capital investment and reduce unemployment more quickly than any other single economic device," Congressman Fish said.

In introducing the bill Fish pointed out that before the investment tax credit was first introduced in the early 1960's, the amount of capital investment by business remained static at $34 billion in 1956 and $37.3 billion in 1962. Following its approval, plant equipment expenditures rose to $64 billion annually by 1968.

"It is my belief that the accelerated depreciation range (ADR) as proposed by the administration will not have as much effect as quickly as the investment tax credit," Fish said, adding, "it is clear we must come quickly to grips with the problems of increasing unemployment."

Fish pointed out that the problem of unemployment was "very much a center of my interest" as the jobless rate in a majority of the counties making up the 28th Congressional District is "substantially above the national average."

Fish today also urged the House Agriculture Committee to approve a bill designed to help farmers obtain credit and to boost construction of homes in rural areas.

A sponsor of the Farm Credit Act of 1971, the congressman appeared before the committee in behalf of farmers and rural residents in the 28th District, one of the most agricultural areas in New York State.

Noting that the bill he supports requires "no tax dollars, no government subsidies and no loan guarantees" he said passage of the measure will assure "that the free enterprise system, so far as it applies to the farmer, will continue in a stronger and broader form."

Fish said the bill will also help farmer-owned cooperatives serving in the 28th District.

Fish noted that the bill will help more young farmers purchase farmland.

"One of the reasons that the number of farms is dropping in New York is because there are very few young men entering agriculture as a profession. One reason for this is because it is almost impossible for a young man to raise the funds he needs to purchase farmland. The bill before the Committee will open the doors for the young farmer by permitting his local Land Bank Association to lend him more than 50 per cent on his farm."

Accord Group Sets Fund Drive

ACCORD — The annual house-to-house fund raising drive of the Kerhonkson-Accord First Aid Squad will get underway July 28 and continue through Labor Day.

Captains of the drive this year are Marilyn Robinson, Jean Dunn, Jean Wright and Augusta Kopp.

Fall plans were announced at the regular monthly business meeting. A medical technician course will be started Monday, Sept. 27 and will run for 12 weeks. The Ulster County Ambulance Association is planning a county-wide mock disaster in early October with all units in the county participating.

The current Red Cross standard first aid course concluded this week with examinations.

Captain Gary Miller reported that the squad had answered 33 calls during the month of June, assisting 39 victims; 39 squadmen donated 191.25 man hours and the ambulance traveled 1,012 miles.

For Period Ending 7 a.m. EST Sunday

Tonight, scattered showers and thunderstorms are forecast from the Gulf Coast region to the Middle and North Atlantic Coasts. Some showers and thunderstorms are also likely from the interior of the Southwest through the Rockies to the Northern Plains. Temperatures across the nation will show little change. Minimum temperatures: Atlanta 69, Boston 64, Chicago 59, Cleveland 59, Denver 61, Duluth 47, Ft. More SS Benefits Are Listed KINGSTON Social security benefits were being paid to residents of Ulster County at the rate of $2 1/4 million a month at the close of 1970. George J. Habernig, social security district manager in Kingston, said today.

A benefit increase signed into law by President Richard M. Nixon March 17 raised the monthly rate of payment by 10 per cent for most of the 21,143 social security beneficiaries in Ulster County, he added. A small number of beneficiaries over age 72 who are not receiving regular social security cash benefits received a five per cent increase.

The increased benefit amounts were effective Jan. 1, 1971. The monthly rate currently being paid in Ulster County is about $2 1/2 million.

Of the social security beneficiaries living in Ulster County, 14,500 are retired workers and their dependents. Another 4,627 are receiving benefits as the survivors of workers who have died, and 1,448 are getting benefits as disabled workers or their dependents.

Habernig pointed out that although most social security beneficiaries are older people, about one out of every four is under age 60. In Ulster County, 3,600 people under age 60 are collecting social security payments each month. Nearly 2,000 are under age 18, receiving payments because a working father or mother has died or is getting social security disability or retirement benefits. Most of the 430 beneficiaries in Ulster between 18 and 22 years of age are getting students' benefits under a provision in the social security law permitting the continuation of a child's benefits beyond his 18th birthday, and up to age 22, if the child is attending school full time.

Also in this 18-22 group, he said, are some other types of beneficiaries, illustrating the broad family protection that the social security program provides workers of all ages. A number are children of retired, disabled or deceased workers who became disabled before they reached 18 and who will probably never be able to work and become self-supporting. The monthly benefits of these young people, severely handicapped by physical or mental disabilities, will continue indefinitely. Benefits are also payable to their mothers if the disabled son or daughter is in the mother's care.

Habernig said that another relatively small but significant group of youthful social security beneficiaries are those who are receiving payments as disabled workers. Social security disability payments can be paid to a person who becomes disabled for work even if he has less than five years of work under social security. As little as one and one-half years of work is required in the case of a worker who becomes disabled before age 24, he said.

Heart Fund Chairman Is Named

KINGSTON Richard E. Craig of Kingston has been appointed 1972 Ulster County Heart Fund Chairman. It was announced by Dr. Edward P. Ginouves, president of the Mid-Hudson Heart Association.

Craig, who was born in Chichester, is a businessman known for his numerous civic activities. Assistant vice-president and manager of the Ulster office of the Kingston Trust Company, Craig is a graduate of the Ontario Central School and the Albany Business College.

Currently treasurer of the Kingston Lions Club, Craig was president of the Ulster County Chapter AIB and is a member of the Board of Directors of Ulster Businessmen. He is a member of the Wilwyck Country Club.

Alaska Pipeline Report Distorted

WASHINGTON — As the Interior Department nears completion of its final environmental statement on the trans-Alaska pipeline, new evidence has surfaced that the original, pro-pipeline report was a fraud.

We have earlier reported how the views of expert ecologists in Interior's Bureau of Land Management were systematically excluded from the first report.

And we told how adverse views of the 800-mile project from a top economist in the Commerce Department and the Alaska District of the Army Engineers have been suppressed.

We have now obtained an internal memorandum in which the Interior Department's own Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife charges that its views were so heavily edited in the draft report that the bureau's position was grossly distorted.

As the statement now stands, it is difficult if not impossible to defend," declares Gordon Watson, director of the bureau's Alaska office, in a memo to his boss in Washington.

Here are a few of the examples of distortion that Watson cites in his memo:

Skips & Deletions
"The section that treats effects of possible oil pollution... has been reworded and differs significantly from the December draft. It no longer treats in detail the possibilities for major spills."

"The discussion in the December draft concerning the disturbance of wildlife on the Beaufort Sea has been deleted also."

"The effects of increased harvest of fish and wildlife, as well as effects of sewage pollution, are treated inadequately in the new draft. This entire section on impacts has been weakened unrealistically."

An adverse final Interior Department report on the project's environmental effect is virtually the nation's last hope of stopping construction of the huge pipeline across the spine of the Alaskan wilderness.

There can be no doubt that the pipeline would have a serious, if not devastating, impact on the water, wildlife, fish and scenery of this magnificent natural region.

For one thing, the mere presence of the pipeline and the access roads and equipment that go with it will deface the region and drive many forms of wildlife away, thereby making greater demands on their new habitats.

Further, the hot-oil would be piped across the most earthquake-prone section of North America. A rupture would result in spillage of vast amounts of hot oil across the frozen tundra, causing ecological mayhem.

FDA Dawdles on Poison Enforcement

While an American child is poisoned every 30 seconds and at least 500 die from poison each year, the Food and Drug Administration dawdles over enforcement of a law that would sharply curb the casualties.

The law is the Poison Prevention Packaging Act, passed by Congress over strenuous industry objections late last year. The law is supposed to force manufacturers of dangerous household substances to market them in child-proof containers.

While the drug and chemical industry lost the battle to stop the law, their lobbyists succeeded in weakening it. Now the Food and Drug Administration seems to be finishing the job by stalling over its enforcement.

For instance, it took HEW Secretary Elliot Richardson, whose quick mind is supposed to be unrivaled, four months to appoint the technical advisory board required by the law.

The committee finally met in Washington in May. Several members, including HEW's own representative, did not even show up. The meeting adjourned after two days, its work only begun.

Most shocking of all, no further meeting of the advisory committee will be held until the fall or later.

Henry Verhulst, a top official in the Office of Product Safety, explained that the committee members had scheduled vacations and this was the reason no more meetings had been set.

He was asked if the department felt the vacations had priority over the children who will be killed or maimed by poisons because of HEW's lollygagging.

His answer was that the committee members were still assisting his office—by mail. "They have already submitted data on eight types of products," he said. So far, however, only standards for liquid drain cleaner have been issued.

Countless studies have been made pursuant to other laws identifying harmful substances. All HEW needs to do is look in its own files.

NOTE: Verhulst should not get all the blame for this performance. His boss, Malcolm Jensen, has been right in there stalling, and Secretary Richardson is showing little interest.

Democrats' Tax Package

Since Democrats have made up their minds that President Nixon is vulnerable on the state of the economy, they are doing something about it themselves in the hope of defeating him by showing their care.

The watchword is to stimulate the economy so as to create jobs and reduce inflation, the twin evils of the present state of the economy. The Democrats' answer is a tax package that would cut taxes and restrict spending.

The package is an answer to Treasury Secretary John B. Connally's statement that enough is being done to stimulate the economy, and no more is necessary now. This view by the official economic spokesman for President Nixon was supported by his chief economic advisor, Paul McCracken.

Whatever is done must be initiated in the House Ways and Means Committee, of which Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas is chairman. While he is undecided whether economic medicine is needed, his views on the package, if one is to be offered, have become known.

First, it must contain some provision to stimulate business investment, a way of making jobs and reducing unemployment. To get the bill through Congress as well as to cater to the rank and file, the bill also must give the consumers a break.

Second, the measure would place a firm ceiling on government outlays, to cut spending levels by at least as much as the revenue loss stemming from the proposed tax cuts. This is aimed at controlling inflation. However, as McCracken pointed out, the current Congress has already passed measures that add $7 billion to the projected deficit, and any ceiling on spending should be retroactive.

Raising the minimum standard income tax deduction, which primarily affects persons earning $7,000 or less, is favored because it would be a more effective stimulant to the economy than an across-the-board boost in exemptions. Such a package would be a hard one for the President to veto so close to an election year.

Food Manufacturing Safety

The American food supply is "generally safe." So says Dr. Charles C. Edwards, a commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration. His statement was designed to quiet concern over the discovery of a contaminated canned soup, which resulted from one death from botulism.

With only 609 food inspectors, FDA has been able to inspect less than 8,000 of the 60,000 food manufacturers in the country. As a result of the food scare, the agency has decided to launch a survey of the safety measures taken by the food manufacturers.

This is not as good as on-the-spot inspection, but the agency is handicapped by the lack of funds to hire more manpower to inspect all firms annually. It must content itself for the present with questionnaires sent to all food manufacturers for information on safety measures.

The survey was suggested by Rep. Paul G. Rogers, Florida Democrat, chairman of a House subcommittee on public health and environment. He is considering holding hearings on the efficacy of current food inspection, which the FDA admits is woefully inadequate.

Dr. Edwards is the first to admit that Americans are chiefly dependent for safety in the food they eat on the standards set by the manufacturers. Because of limited resources and legal authority the agency must depend on secondary means of monitoring the industry. The questionnaires are one of these methods.

The contaminated soup, Dr. Edwards said, was due to "human error," involving failure to fully process the contents. Rep. Rogers takes the view that it may be possible to reduce such human errors by tighter legislative control. And, hopefully many more inspectors.

FLAGS AROUND THE CLOCK—

The 50 American flags encircling the Washington Monument in Washington will be flown day and night except in inclement weather by order of President Nixon. He cited the approach of the 200th anniversary of American independence. The flag is also flown around the clock at the White House, the Capitol and a handful of other places in the country.

Two China Problems

WASHINGTON — Although sentiment everywhere is generally favorable to the admission of Red China into the United Nations, the question for the United States and the world as a whole is not as simple as it might appear. For if Peking is given the seat on the Security Council designated in the Charter of the United Nations for "the Republic of China"—now held by the Nationalist Government of Taiwan—there will be two Communist countries out of the five permanent members who are entitled to veto power, the Soviet Union and Red China. The others are the United States, Great Britain and France. Six non-permanent members of the council are elected every two years, but these do not have a veto.

There has been a good deal of talk lately about "two Chinas" in the United Nations. Some people assume that the Taiwan government could remain on the Security Council. Others conclude that the smaller country could retain its seat in the General Assembly, even though it loses its position on the Security Council.

This is a crucial decision for the United States and for other members of the United Nations to make as they consider the possible entry of Red China. Do they want two Communist governments to have a veto in the Security Council? While it is true that there are differences between Moscow and Peking and that Red China may have an attitude on Asian affairs that is not the same as that of the Soviet Union, the fact remains that the veto power possessed by Red China could play an important part in preventing any significant action by the Security Council to preserve peace in the Western and South Pacific.

The Nationalist Chinese representatives from Taiwan have generally followed in the Security Council the policy of the United States, Great Britain and France, rather than that of the Soviet Union.

It will be contended that the General Assembly has in recent years taken over the task of maintaining peace and that whatever has been done has been accomplished by a majority in the Assembly, where all members are represented and there is no veto. But if the Red Chinese are in the Security Council, they would be in a position to introduce measures that might run counter to what is being proposed in the General Assembly. While the veto could be exercised by the United States or Great Britain or France, certainly the peace of the world would not be advanced by the complex situation that could ensue in the United Nations.

Unquestionably the Peking regime is entitled to admission to the United Nations whenever it is ready to accept the obligations of the Charter. But the Nationalists have from the beginning been a member of the United Nations and held a seat in the Security Council. There is no reason for changing the present status of the Taiwan government. Nor should there be any objection later to the admission of mainland China to the Security Council if some day the two Chinas were united.

What is needed now is dissemination of information about the obligations imposed by the United Nations Charter. Article 2, for example, contains the following provision:

"All members shall refrain in their International Relations from the threat or use of force against the territorial integrity or political independence of any state, or in any other manner inconsistent with the purposes of the United Nations."

The charter was adopted in 1945, and the U.N. came into formal existence on Oct. 24, 1945. While the Security Council has taken decisive action in many instances, notably in the Korean War, the General Assembly has been developing an increasing influence on the activities of the United Nations. Peacekeeping forces have been sent by the U.N. to various countries when disputes threatened international peace. The United Nations still keeps in Korea a force made up primarily of military units from the United States, which are stationed there to see that the armistice agreements made nearly two decades ago are observed.

Since the U.N. is expected to carry out a vital role in helping to preserve peace in different parts of the world, the question of whether Red China shall be one of the countries which holds a veto power in the Security Council will have to be carefully considered by the non-Communist nations before voting on the admission of Red China.

Portrait of East German Leader

WEST BERLIN—U.S. intelligence services in this city tell me privately that there are an estimated 12,000 Iron Curtain agents in free Berlin alone and that they have now infiltrated the West German Bundesnachrichtendienst (BN-D) espionage apparatus with alarming success.

"Our joint operations with the BND are a sieve," one U.S. intelligence chief stated "and we might as well be operating in Macy's window."

He finds the step-up most noticeable since hard-liner Erich Honecker, 58, succeeded East German Communist party leader Walter Ulbricht, 77, on May 3 after Ulbricht's reign of 25 years. He also lifted the veil on much about the newly menacing Honecker himself.

Born in the industrial Saar, East Germany's new top man is slender, wiry, with kinky hair that is graying. He has the habit of looking to his rear with the jerky neck motions of a rooster and with cruel, suspicious eyes behind heavy-rimmed spectacles. His jowly, sapient face—a face like a glistening pink ham—is always flushed, and it is commonly said in East Berlin that you can feel Honecker's steely eyes in your back—a thoroughly dangerous Red thug.

Honecker's parents were Communist party members and, at eight, he was distributing party newspapers with his mother. At 10 he joined the local Communist youth organization. Honecker was on his way.

He was liberated from jail when the Soviet troops took this city in 1945. He immediately made contact with the "Ulbricht group" that Moscow had sent to East Berlin in Soviet planes to establish a Red regime—the birth of East Germany—on the heels of the Red Army four years before the Federal Republic of Germany (West Germany) was founded in 1949.

In 1953 Honecker married fiery Red youth leader Margot Feist, 26, who looks like a Viking, mini-sized and batheless. She is today the East Germany Minister of Education in Honecker's government and they live in a guarded Communist party refuge—floodlights at night—in Walditz, northeast of East Berlin.

Some years ago the party's Moscow headquarters brought them both to Moscow. They received two years' training there in espionage, sabotage and urban guerrilla warfare and were given courses at the espionage technical laboratory at nearby Pushkino. Then they were returned here and together clawed their way upward in the Red party machinery under Ulbricht.

Both manned barricades that became the Berlin Wall in 1961—Honecker conspicuously by then, for he had been a full Politburo member since 1958. And there hangs about him to this day the aroma, obvious when you know it, of the professional killer.

Our intelligence chiefs here find Honecker closer to nihilist Nechayev than to Marx. But this is hardly strange. Frustrated Communists frequently turn from the inconsistencies of Marx to the nihilist teachings of Nechayev. Honecker is today basing his East German doctrine partly on Marx, partly on Nechayev. He needs both of them to solidify his complete power—skillful dialectics and violence both.

Many people think of Lenin's Putsch in Russia as a struggle between czars and Bolsheviks. But a struggle for power is never, of course, just one opposite against another—and Honecker saw this very early under Ulbricht. He also saw Stalin's long reach to rival Leon Trotsky's safe refuge in his Mexican fortress home as an Alpine pick crashed into Trotsky's skull and the blood from his brain spilled over his manuscript of his "Life of Stalin."

Aging leaders are tempted to apply old solutions to new problems, and as Ulbricht grew older and weakened Honecker hit him increasingly hard from the underside and gradually imprisoned him within a cabal of Honecker's own.

Our intelligence here estimates that there are at least 400 former hard-core Nazis in today's East German government, including Gen. Willi Stoph, the Prime Minister, no less, and Honecker has made most of these his allies—Stoph at the top of the list.

Behind the scenes here, the result is an even harder hard line against West Berlin and a variety of unrevealed menaces of West Germany as a whole—with the Kremlin giving far more applause to Honecker today than it ever gave Ulbricht.

TEEN SCENE: Indians Beat the Band

By LEI

Tomorrow, July 18, the sound of parade music will be drifting over the uptown Kingston area in the early twilight. The sound will be coming from Deitz Stadium, where, as regular Freeman readers know, the Pow-Wow of Junior Champions Drum and Bugle Corps Competition will be in full maneuver.

To the majority of teenagers, a mention of "the band" will bring mental images of the Woodstock-based group that used to back Bob Dylan. However, to the teens involved in drum and bugle corps—and their number is growing yearly—the term could only refer to their favorite drum and bugle corps.

The Freeman area is the home for several of the most outstanding drum and bugle corps in the nation. Several of them will be among those competing at the Pow-Wow tomorrow evening. The host corps, of course, will be Kingston's own Troop 12 and Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps, which were the subject of a Teen Scene column some years ago. Also from the Hudson Valley will be the Poughkeepsie Vagabonds and the Spiegelleires of Troy.

The members of these corps are all teenagers or (in the case of the Troop 12 Indians) younger, and all of them are overwhelmingly enthusiastic about what they are doing.

The fact that while many of us are darkening the tan, working at the summer job, or looking for trouble, they are out winning gold trophies with music proves something. Boys who belong to drum and bugle corps often find that it is somewhat similar to being on the football squad—girls seem to be magnetically attracted. As for the girls in the bands, what girl has not, at some time, envied the strutting drum majorettes in parades? For some of them the dreams of twirling batons, high boots, swinging skirts and a tall hat have come true.

Most junior drum and bugle corps start recruiting members in the fall, so that they will be ready to face the grueling competition circuit in the next summer. The Kingston Indians, for example, will begin recruiting in September.

Most corps are willing to consider sincere, reliable teenagers regardless of musical experience, sex, background, or education. In the Indians, teenagers without previous musical experience usually are placed first in the color section, where they learn to maneuver the flags and banners that wave so thrillingly over competitions. If the teen is interested, and willing to invest the time and effort needed to learn, instruction in an instrument is available.

Several drummers in area rock bands received their first drum instruction as members of a marching corps drum section. Those interested in playing horns also find that instruction from band instructors often is far superior to that available privately.

The teenagers competing out on the field at Deitz Stadium tomorrow night excel in self-discipline and reliability, two qualities that are absolutely necessary for any teen to put in the long hours of instruction, drill work, and rehearsal necessary to produce those thrilling maneuvers the audience will see on Sunday evening. They have a fine sense of teamwork, and a strong competitive spirit—a drum and bugle corps is not unlike a football or basketball team, except that the competition is musical, not physical.

In return, the corps member has a lot of fun and travel—trips to New York City, Canada, California, or New Orleans are the rule, not the exception during the competition season. Teens in the corps make a lot of new friends, and develop new interests—and new muscles, too, from all that marching. And of course, there's the thrill of being part of the winning corps at a competition such as tomorrow's.

Take a few friends out to the Pow-Wow of Junior Champions tomorrow evening, and see how other kids' your age are spending the summer. Next year, you could be one of the members of the winning team—or at least, a fascinated rooter for your favorite band.

YOUTH IN NEWS: Academic Achievement

Award wins are still coming in College, Bennington College and Antioch College.

Another area scholarship winner was Kathleen Powers, a 1971 graduate of John A. Coleman High School. She was the recipient of an American Legion Scholarship Award presented by Kingston Post 150 commander Orrie DeGraff and Clarence Hyde, 150 Americanism committeeman.

Michele graduated from New Paltz High School with 94 average and received a regents diploma with honor and special endorsement in French with honor. She was the recipient of a New York State Regents Scholarship and was a finalist in the National Merit Scholarship Competition. She was one of 49 students in New York State to receive an achievement award from the New York State English Teachers Council for outstanding achievement in English.

In addition to being accepted at Yale, Michele was offered admission at Princeton University. Sarah Lawrence College, Bennington College and Antioch College.

They are Niklaus V. Weber, of Salem Road, New Salem and Florence E. Amsler, of Box 305D, Route 3 Saugerties.

Weber received his scholarship from the UCCF Fund, while Mrs. Amsler received her scholarship from J.T. Eckerson Inc., Marlboro.

Weber, a Liberal Arts major, will use his scholarship toward his second year at the community college. He was a member of the varsity soccer and tennis teams this past year, and after graduating from Ulster, he plans to major in physical education at a four-year university.

Mrs. Amsler also a Liberal Arts major, plans to return to the Community college next fall and expects to receive a two-year degree in June 1972.

Both students were selected for the awards by the Scholarship Committee at the College.

It was straight A all the way for the following students at Ulster County Community College. During the past semester they achieved perfect 4.0 averages in their full time studies at UCCF.

MICHELE ABRUZZI

Also, George E. Williams and Kerry G. Walker, Woodstock; Richard Weigand of Shokan and Diane Legier of Bearsville.

Also, John Perry Bell, Highland; Stephen Withall, Ulster Park; Patricia Martinelli of Saugerties and Kathy Ann O'Brien, Red Hook.

Two names were inadvertently omitted from the previous Ulster County Community College dean's listing. They are Deborah Lewis and Gordon Stoutenburg, both of Kingston.

Dean's list recognition was accorded John M. Schiede of 80 Yarmouth Street, Kingston, for the spring semester at Southern Illinois University. He is a student at the university's Carbondale Campus.

Two area residents were named to the dean's list at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., for the semester just completed. They are Ward T. Herbert of Schuler Lane, Lake Katrine, and Laurence E. Powell of RD 3, Box 142, Walkkill.

John Alden Robinson of Airport Road, Accord was named to the honor roll at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio. Two Kingston area students have been named to the dean's honor list at the Albany College of Pharmacy. They are Joyce M. Yaple, a fourth year student, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Yaple of 298 Lucas Avenue, Kingston and Philip L. Crank Jr., a second year student, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip L. Crank Sr. of 5 Peach Lane, Saugerties.

Henry Karl Rose, Kingston, was one of the top quarter of students at University of Maine, Orono, during the past semester. He attained dean's list ranking.

Stanley B. Longyear, Class of 1971, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Longyear of Woodstock earned dean's list grades at Norwich University during the second semester at the Vermont military college.

Jaqueline A. Olivet was among 32 New York State students named to the dean's list at Colby College, Waterville, Me. A freshman, she is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John A. Olivet of 75 St. James Street, Kingston. She is graduate of Kingston High School.

Environmental Workshop for Teens

The Rogers Conservation Education Center of the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation at Sherburne will conduct a one-week workshop in environmental concerns August 8-14, Commissioner Henry L. Diamond announced today.

"This workshop is designed to acquaint high school young men with the principal environmental problems which face society today," Commissioner Diamond said. "They will be exposed to the basic information about natural resources, both use and abuse. Particular emphasis will be placed upon the responsibilities of young people as future citizens, including those organizations and activities where their efforts may be most effectively applied to help their environment."

Young men 13-17 years of age may apply for the one-week resident program by contacting Douglas Krum at the Rogers Conservation Education Center, Sherburne, 13460. Candidates will be selected and notified no later than July 20. The fee for one week is $45 per person and must be received by Aug. 1st. Checks or money orders should be made payable to Mid-York Conservation Fund, Inc.

It is recommended that young men be selected by civic clubs, professional societies or local sportsmen organizations on the basis of prior interest and involvement in conservation or ecological programs. It is also suggested that each candidate submit a brief personal history of his commitments and future aspirations in this field, at the time his application is mailed.

The week's program will encompass the following categories:

- The Natural Community—Soil, water, weather, plant and animals combine to produce the basic wealth of the land.
- The Community of Man—Discussion of man's community structure and its similarities to the natural community, but demonstrating those differences which have produced our problems.
- Evaluation of our environment.

mental problems—Determining the necessary resolves to these problems and ways of locating and measuring them.

● Assigning priorities and the agencies responsible for management and resolve of the problems—The operation of state, federal and local government in the areas of conservation concerns. The role of civic clubs, sportsmen's groups, youth groups and other private organizations will be discussed.

● Education and recreation—Multiple use of public and private lands will be explored, emphasizing the role and values of hunting, fishing and non-consumptive uses.

A full schedule of special activities, one period each day, will be devoted to developing skills which will help young people to better enjoy outdoor pursuits. This will include fishing skills, hunting skills, non-power boating, gun safety, trapping, archery, hiking and camping.

Summer Activities At New Paltz High

NEW PALTZ It may be summer but activities are continuing at New Paltz High School.

The Guidance Office at New Paltz High School will be open most times until Aug. 6. If any student is interested in coming in to use the facilities to explore college catalogs, and other research they may be sure someone will be there at the time they wish to come in to the office.

Two new dual control training cars were presented to New Paltz High School by Louis Smith Chevrolet for use in the school's Driver education program.

Keys to the cars, 1971 Chevrolets were turned over to Ted Sirko, summer school principal by Philip Marsh, a representative of the local automobile dealer. The car will be used to provide behind-the-wheel training to students enrolled in the course.

"We are pleased to make these cars available to the teenage students of New Paltz," Marsh said.

"Driver Education is one of the best means we have to reduce accidents, particularly those involving young drivers."

"The driving attitudes and skills the young students at New Paltz High School will develop in this course will go a long way in helping create an entire generation of future safety-trained drivers."

Sirko congratulated the local dealership for its "Fine, public-spirited contribution to safety."

He said that the school was proud to offer the Driver Education program as part of its regular curriculum.

"Records show that youngsters who have successfully completed Driver Education courses are involved in only half as many accidents as untrained drivers," Sirko said.

"It would be difficult to estimate the number of lives saved by these courses. But you may be sure there are a number of young people in this area enjoying life today who would not be here if they had not received such training. There is no question but that the youngster who has been thoroughly trained in the skills and attitudes of safe motoring stands a better chance of avoiding a traffic accident."

Arrangements for the loan of the cars to New Paltz High School were made through the Automobile Club of New York, local affiliate of the American Automobile Association.

Students passing the Driver Education course, which is offered as an elective subject, receive one-half unit of credit towards graduation and are eligible for a senior operator's license upon reaching their 17th birthday.

Head Start for Fall

MIDDLETOWN "Get a head start on September."

That's the suggestion for students from Lewis C. Popham III, dean of summer sessions at Orange County Community College, as registration nears for OCCC's second summer session of 1971.

Students can earn a full semester's college credit in any of 50 or more day and evening classes in the six-week session starting July 26. Dean Popham noted, "With summer jobs at a premium and college costs rising, the summer session offers a good chance to be credits ahead by the time the new fall semester begins," he explained.

Because OCCC is accredited and a unit of the State University of New York, credits earned there are transferable to most colleges and universities, Dean Popham pointed out.

Registration for the second session will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, July 22, and from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Friday, July 23, in Harriman Hall on OCCC's Middletown campus.

In addition to credit courses in business, the humanities, and social, biological and physical sciences, non-credit classes will be offered in typing, engineering techniques, driver education, Revised Criminal Procedure Law, judo and karate, and silent motion picture classics.

Prisma Makes Plea

KINGSTON Prisma is issuing a summer plea with an eye to the annual fall campaign for scholarship funds.

The Kingston High School girls organization each year conducts a magazine subscription drive in October. Although it seems rather far away at this point, Prisma girls are asking that patrons keep the drive in mind and save new, renewal, special offer and gift subscriptions for that time.

Donna Benishake, publicity chairman, said that Prisma members will be calling from Oct. 8 to 18 with brochures explaining the offerings. The purpose of Prisma is to raise money for scholarships that are awarded each year to deserving senior girls. The primary source of scholarship money is from the magazine drive.

Miss Ann Donovan is faculty sponsor of the drive and may be contacted for further information, as the autumn dates draw near.

Randall Leads Wiltwyck Qualifiers

KINGSTON day. Esterbrook, a member of the always tough Leon Randall Country Club, turned out a 69 to take medalist honors as qualifying for this weekend's Wiltwyck Invitational took place Friday.

Randall led a field of 16 in the championship flight into a 72-hole showdown which began this morning. Eleven other flights of eight golfers each also teed off for a 36-hole match.

The runner-up in this year's Herdegen Memorial at Woodstock and a member of the host club, Randall went out in 35 and came back in 34 to finish three under par on the 6,698-yard Wiltwyck layout.

Rick Barthel and John Esterbrook were next with two under par scores of 70. Barthel, the Ontario High School golf coach, accumulated his total on Thursday.

Bobby Nichols Says He'll Win

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bobby Nichols, who couldn't hold a lead predicted half in jest today that he'll be the winner of the $150,000 Western Open on Sunday.

Nichols headed into the third round today in a deadlock with Dick Lotz for the lead, each four under par with 138. But Nichols could have been alone in front, had he been able to par his last hole.

Lotz was in the clubhouse after his second straight 69, when Nichols headed down the fairway on the last hole, five under par, and needing only another par for the lead. He knew he could be in front if he parred.

"I wasn't concerned about the scoreboard today," he said. "That's for Sunday. I noticed the board and I knew somebody was four under, but I didn't know who."

"I'll certainly look at the board Sunday," he added. "And I'll see you all Sunday night. This is my second time here, and I like it."

Nichols, who was 13th on the money winning list last year with more than $103,000, said he bogied the last hole because "it was the toughest today. I think these are the narrowest fairways I ever played in my life."

He got a poor drive on the last hole and his second shot went into a trap. His explosion was short and he two putted from 30 feet to fall into the hole with Lotz. Still Nichols had the best round of the day, a 67.

Lotz, 6th in earnings last year with $125,000, said he felt "I lost my timing the last six or seven holes. I did some scrambling but I guess that's the way to win a tournament and it might as well be me."

Lotz and Nichols held only a one stroke lead on Bruce Crampton, the first day leader, and Jerry Heard, both at 139, while Babe Hickey, Dale Douglass and Phil Rodgers

Plunkett, Stanford's Heisman Trophy winner and the No. 1 choice in the National Football League draft, signed with the Patriots Thursday, then found himself a probable starter less than 24 hours later.

Kapp, a 34-year-old veteran quarterback who led the Minnesota Vikings to the NFL championship and a Super Bowl berth while playing out his option in 1969, packed his bags and left the Patriots' training camp at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst late Friday.

Reportedly working on a three-year $500,000 contract with the Patriots, Kapp was set down by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle. The commissioner ruled that Kapp cannot even work out with the club until he signs a standard player's contract.

Kapp said he refused to sign such a contract on the advice of his attorney, John Elliott Cook of San Francisco. He refused to say why. So did Cook.

Kapp reportedly sought a five-year, $1.25 million contract from the Vikings last year. He came to the Patriots as a free agent, with the Vikings getting safety John Charles and a 1972 draft choice as compensation.

"It's now a question of money," a Patriots spokesman said. "He's very satisfied."

Kapp was counted on to lead the Patriots while Plunkett learned the ropes in pro ball.

Mike Taliaferro, a veteran who lost his starting job when Kapp joined the Patriots, was on the trading block as late as Thursday night. However, he was taken off it with Kapp's departure, and looms as Plunkett's only challenger for the No. 1 quarterback job.

Meanwhile, huge Bubba Smith, the All-Pro defensive end, reported to the Baltimore Colts' training camp at Western Maryland College, two days late due to a contract dispute. Smith reportedly had been trying to renegotiate his current multi-year contract but the Colts refused under a long-standing policy.

"We straightened things out," he said. "I'm going to play. There will be no more discussion about it."

Veteran tight end Marv Fleming reported to the Miami Dolphins' training camp, but running backs Larry Csonka and Jim Kick remained holdouts.

Coach Don Shula said he would fine Csonka and Kick $200 a day for missing workouts during contract negotiations.

Running back Duane Thomas and linebacker Chuck Howley failed to report to the Dallas Cowboys' camp at Thousand Oaks, Calif., and were subject to $100 a day fines. Thomas, the Cowboys' leading ground gainer in his rookie season last year, is under a multi-year contract with Dallas but has said he will quit if he doesn't get a new pact.

Coach Don Shula said he would fine Csonka and Kick $200 a day for missing workouts during contract negotiations.

Running back Duane Thomas and linebacker Chuck Howley failed to report to the Dallas Cowboys' camp at Thousand Oaks, Calif., and were subject to $100 a day fines. Thomas, the Cowboys' leading ground gainer in his rookie season last year, is under a multi-year contract with Dallas but has said he will quit if he doesn't get a new pact.

Pats Have Jim But Not Joe

BOSTON (AP) — Jim Plunkett, where are you? There's a steady job waiting for you with the New England Patriots with Joe Kapp apparently out of the picture.

Plunkett, Stanford's Heisman Trophy winner and the No. 1 choice in the National Football League draft, signed with the Patriots Thursday, then found himself a probable starter less than 24 hours later.

Kapp, a 34-year-old veteran quarterback who led the Minnesota Vikings to the NFL championship and a Super Bowl berth while playing out his option in 1969, packed his bags and left the Patriots' training camp at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst late Friday.

Reportedly working on a three-year $500,000 contract with the Patriots, Kapp was set down by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle. The commissioner ruled that Kapp cannot even work out with the club until he signs a standard player's contract.

Kapp said he refused to sign such a contract on the advice of his attorney, John Elliott Cook of San Francisco. He refused to say why. So did Cook.

Kapp reportedly sought a five-year, $1.25 million contract from the Vikings last year. He came to the Patriots as a free agent, with the Vikings getting safety John Charles and a 1972 draft choice as compensation.

"It's now a question of money," a Patriots spokesman said. "He's very satisfied."

Kapp was counted on to lead the Patriots while Plunkett learned the ropes in pro ball.

Mike Taliaferro, a veteran who lost his starting job when Kapp joined the Patriots, was on the trading block as late as Thursday night. However, he was taken off it with Kapp's departure, and looms as Plunkett's only challenger for the No. 1 quarterback job.

Meanwhile, huge Bubba Smith, the All-Pro defensive end, reported to the Baltimore Colts' training camp at Western Maryland College, two days late due to a contract dispute. Smith reportedly had been trying to renegotiate his current multi-year contract but the Colts refused under a long-standing policy.

"We straightened things out," he said. "I'm going to play. There will be no more discussion about it."

Veteran tight end Marv Fleming reported to the Miami Dolphins' training camp, but running backs Larry Csonka and Jim Kick remained holdouts.

Coach Don Shula said he would fine Csonka and Kick $200 a day for missing workouts during contract negotiations.

Yanks Soar, Mets Tumble

Blomberg Excites

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees don't want to put any undue pressure on Ron Blomberg and they try not to get overly excited about him, but Blomberg's league-leading total of 197. It was also his seventh shutout of the year and second one-hitter of his career.

The 22-year-old outfielder, who was called up from the minors three weeks ago, drilled a three-run homer in the first inning that started the Yankees to a 7-4 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Then in the fourth, after the Brewers had tied the score, Blomberg gave them a taste of his speed by dropping a bunt down the third base line and outlegging it for a leadoff hit.

"I saw the third baseman (Rob Ellis) playing back and we just needed that run," Blomberg said, even though the Yanks failed to bring him around.

"It wasn't a real good bunt, maybe a little too hard, but I was fortunate enough to beat it out."

"If you hit a ball good your first time up, they're usually going to play you deeper the next time. My first time up they weren't playing as far back as they did after I hit the home run."

German Booters Enter Oehler's for Local Tilt

MORGAN HILL International soccer returns to Oehler's Stadium here tomorrow evening when the powerful Werder Bremen team from Germany meets the Kingston Sport Club.

Kick-off time is 5:30 p. m. The talented Werder Bremen booters are a strong unit which is composed of several former German National team members. Being a performer for the Nationals is the highest plateau a soccer player can reach and he becomes an instant celebrity.

Oehler's Mountain Lodge will host the visitors from tomorrow until Tuesday before Werder Bremen continues on its United States tour. Kingston will be looking for its first win against international competition following two defeats. The Biberach team from Germany downed the locals 1-0 in a game called off at 18 minutes due to a thunderstorm and

Glynn Shines As Vols Win

KINGSTON Ed Glynn pitched a no-hitter to lead the Vols to a 6-1 victory over K.P.A. in the Babe Ruth League. In other action, Rock Construction downed Elks, 7-1, and V.F.W. defeated Legion, 5-1.

Keith Jones scored three of the six runs for Vols, getting on base three times on walks. In all, losing pitcher Cliff Lyons gave up nine walks, while striking out eight. But it was Glynn who was the hero of the game, besides pitching a no-hitter bore down to strike out 14 K.P.A. batters.

John Stote pitched a three-hitter with nine strikeouts, and got good back-up hitting from teammates Joel Sickler and Adam Stauble, both of whom knocked in two runs with clutch singles. Third baseman Pete Mercier added a pair of singles to add to the Elks offense.

A Lot of Bull

SEVILLE, Spain (UPI)—This Sunday's bullfights in Spain's most famous arena have been cancelled because of expected competition of a live telecast from Rio de Janeiro featuring the farewell appearance of Brazil's soccer king, Pele.

KINGSTON There was a good crowd on hand at Dietz Stadium last night and they saw a good game as the Kingston American Legion Post #150 defeated the Saugerties team, 5 to 1, in the final of a three game playoff for the Ulster County American Legion Junior championship.

The outstanding player of the contest was Kingston pitcher Bob Marz, who hurled a one-hitter, while going three-for-three at the plate. He gave up only one base-on-balls, while striking out eight.

That one hit, and the solo Saugerties run, came early in the first inning as Mike Bond

White, tried to throw Van Kleeck out at third, he threw the ball away and Steve scored the second run. Don Hastings then walked, and Ralph Perry came up and slammed a long triple to score the runners.

Winning the Ulster County Legion title gives Kingston the job of representing the county in the Third District Tournament to be played later this month at Albany.

The next league game for Kingston will be against Catskill, on Tuesday night, July 20, at 8:30 p.m.

Before going to Albany, Kingston will also play a few "warm-up" games, which will be announced.

Trot Probe... Mafia Suspected

The Federal Organized Crime Strike Force, police and a federal grand jury are investigating the possibility that the race at the harness track on June 7 was fixed.

One facet of the investigation concerns the gangland-style slaying sometime after the race of John Lombardo, whose wife was part owner of a horse in the race.

A harness driver not in the race is said to have won $26,000 in the exacta betting by picking the first two horses to finish in order.

Another newspaper, the New York Daily News, reported Friday in a copyrighted story that a state-appointed track official and a Yonkers raceway executive won about $6,000 on the race. The News did not identify the pair by name.

Following that report, Stanley Tananbaum, president of the race track, said he too had begun an investigation into the suspicious race, which was followed by a near riot because of an unexpectedly low exacta payment.

Knicks Unfold '71-'72 Sked

NEW YORK CITY The New York Knickerbockers, who last season topped the newly-formed Atlantic Division of the National Basketball Association, will launch their 26th campaign on Tuesday, Oct. 12, in a clash with the Detroit Pistons at Madison Square Garden.

The heaviest Saturday home schedule in the club's history—a total of 20 games at the Garden—comprise almost half of the entire 41-game home slate announced for the 1971-72 season today.

Last season the Knicks won 32 of their 41 regular season home games—an unprecedented winning achievement on New York boards.

The four-division structure which emanated from an expansion program that brought Buffalo, Cleveland and Portland into NBA membership, will continue in the upcoming campaign with Houston replacing San Diego in the Pacific Division, a five-team bracket.

Insofar as the Garden itself is concerned, Knick fans will see more of the Western Conference teams than those of the Eastern Conference. Twenty-two games will be played here against Pacific and Midwest Division contenders while 19 of the home games will be with teams from the Central and Atlantic Divisions. In their own bracket, the Knicks will play land, co-rosies of the year; as well as flashy Pete Maravich of Atlanta and exciting Calvin Murphy of San Diego (now Houston). Other first-year standouts were Bob Lanier of Detroit and Sam Lacey and Nate Archibald of Cincinnati.

Warriors for Cazzie Russell, The Schedule Oct. 12, Detroit; 16, Los Angeles; 19, San Francisco; 23, Atlanta; 26, Boston; 28, Houston; 30, Philadelphia.

Nov. 11, San Francisco; 13, Detroit; 16, Phoenix; 20, Baltimore; 23, Cincinnati; 27, Chicago; 30, Seattle.

Dec. 4, Buffalo; 7, Boston; 11, Portland; 14, Phoenix; 18, Cleveland; 25, Seattle; 30, Baltimore (off).

Jan. 1, Cincinnati; 3, Milwaukee; 8, Chicago; 25, Boston; 29, Seattle; Feb. 1, Detroit; 5, Philadelphia; 8, Los Angeles; 12, Cleveland; 16, Houston; 19, Buffalo; 22, Portland; 28, Baltimore; 29, Los Angeles; Mar. 4, Philadelphia; 7, Milwaukee; 11, Phoenix; 14, Atlanta; 22, Buffalo; 25, Cleveland.

Top Rookies Much of the same may be anticipated in the 1971-72 campaign, what with Austin Carr of Notre Dame, last season's "College Player of the Year" joining the Cavaliers, and such other standouts as Sidney Wicks (UCLA) with the Trail Blazers; Howard Porter (Villanova) signed with the Bulls, and Elmore Smith (Kentucky State) the MVP in the NCAA Tournament, bolstering the Braves.

The Knicks have their own No. 1 draft selection, Dean Meminger, the toast of Marquette's powerful teams of recent years. The most notable off-season trade affords the Knicks the addition of one of the league's foremost rebounders — Jerry Lucas, Lucas, who will add his muscle to that of captain Willis Reed and forward Dave DeBusschere, was dealt from the

Homer Power Helsmoortel; Bud Smith Hits Grand Slam

There were home runs galore in a pair of games in the Saugerties Softball League, as Helsmoortel Insurers defeated Everyready Beverages, 6-5, and Ted's Esso downed Jug's F Troop, 11-9.

Helsmoortel's were scoreless for the first four innings, but "The Old Dad," Bud Smith, changed that abruptly with a grand slam home run, his second in two games, to put the Insurers ahead.

However, by the last inning until pitcher Bob Carpenter won his own game with an RBI single, Don Longtong and Fritz Beckett led the losing Blue Division team with a single and a double each.

For the White Division leading Ted's, first place was on the line as Jug's jumped off to an early 5-0 lead. Ted's closed the gap in the bottom of the second on Joe Hinchley's three-run in-

NOTICE TO ALL AREA Women's Organizations

If your organization has been publicized on the pages of The Freeman for the year, it has been in existence (up to 100 years), this fact deserves mention on the pages of The Daily Freeman's 100th Anniversary Issue to be printed on Monday, October 18, 1971. This issue will be the most current story of area history to date. Your organization represents part of this history, and we urge you to participate in this Anniversary Issue. Not to congratulate us... but to tell a little about your organization and to "toot your own horn" so to speak.

If you are a non-profit organization your rate is $2.00 a column inch. As an example: If you make a space reservation of 2 columns across and 5 inches down, a total of 10 inches the cost would be $20.00. Of course you may reserve more or less space and the cost would increase or decrease accordingly. The Freeman Display advertising department will be more than happy to assist you in making up your advertisement.

Over 1475 extra copies of this issue have already been ordered for delivery to various places. Space reservations are being made daily. Join the Women's Organizations who have already reserved space. To be a part of this great undertaking, call The Freeman Display Advertising Department.

Noel Harrison to Star in 'Mousetrap' At Hyde Park Playhouse Next Week

The very versatile Noel Harrison will star at the Hyde Park Playhouse in Agatha Melodrama, "The Mousetrap" opening on Monday, July 19 through July 24.

This exciting mystery, written by the most successful author of detective stories, holds the record for the longest running play in stage history — celebrating its 19th year in London this past November. It is an eerie comedy of murders, set in a snowbound "guest-house" in rural England, which was just been turned into a small hotel and involves the guests of the mansion who have an unusual amount of secrets and strange mannerisms that ultimately connect them with a gruesome London murder!

Noel Harrison brings to the role of the Detective Sergeant an innate mastery of acting talent in every media which he performs with the ease and grace inherited from his theatrical family. He spent his childhood between Cornwall, England and Switzerland. Upon graduation at 16 he turned down a University scholarship to join the British Olympic Ski Team. He has done a number of things after leaving the athletic life, from stage managing a repertory company delivering the news cypso style on TV, nightclub singing to skiing in commercials. In 1965 he made his first record, "A Young Girl" which became a hit and then followed this with his motion picture debut in "The Best of Enemies" with David Niven. Many TV appearances followed, including his very starring role in the very successful NBC TV series "The Girl From U.N.C.L.E."

He has also had leading roles in "Mission: Impossible," "Love American Style" and "The Name of the Game." His latest motion picture is "Take A Girl Like You" in which he co-stars with Oliver Reed and Hayley Mills. Theatre goers will remember him in "Blithe Spirit" in which he played the role that his famous father, Rex Harrison, created in the original film version.

Tickets are now on sale for The Mousetrap and the seven other star productions being offered by the Playhouse this season. They may be obtained at the Box Office daily Monday through Saturday from 10 to 10, Sunday from 1 to 5 or at any of the various ticket agencies throughout the Hudson Valley area. For reservations or further information contact the playhouse.

Carol Lynn Sweet Weds Edward Benjamin

Miss Carol Lynn Sweet, Jr. of Chichester, became the bride of Edward George Benjamin son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Benjamin Sr., Lanesville on Saturday, July 3 at 1:30 p.m.

at Lanesville United Methodist Church.

The Rev. William Peckham officiated at the ceremony and Helen Wholesworth, organist, provided traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of daisies and black eye susans decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected an empire style gown, fashioned with a scalloped ruffle trim on the collar and sleeve cuffs.

The A-line gown featured a full cage-style back and a scalloped hemline. Her headpiece of acetate and nylon lace petals held an elbow length veil and she carried a white daisy cluster tied with white ribbon.

Mrs. Walter Baughman, attendant in a floor length yellow gown, styled with long sleeves and accented with around the cuffs and high waisted front. A bow held her yellow veil and she carried a bouquet of yellow daisies trimmed with white ribbon.

Walter Baughman, Chichester, was best man. Ushers were Roger Benjamin brother of the bridegroom; and Bobby Ostrander, cousin of the bride, Chichester.

A reception for 80 guests was held at Stony Clove Rod and Gun Club.

Guests attended from Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Phenicia, Lanesville, Chichester, Ashland and Woodstock.

The bride is a June graduate of Ontario Central School and her husband is an alumnus of Hunter-Tannersville Central School. He is employed as a carpenter at Stony Clove Carpentry.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin will reside at Lanesville.

Accepted at College

Will Weidman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Weidman of Woodstock, will be a member of the freshman class at Boston University this fall.

Weidman will be studying for the Bachelor of Science degree at the University's School of Public Communications.

While a student at Ontario

Central High School, Weidman participated in Student Government, the National Honor Society, and served as class president. He was graduated with honors in June and received an award for excellence in photography.

Art Exhibit

Paintings by Aretta Meyers of Barclay Heights, Saugerties, are now on display at Hudson Valley Federal Savings and Loan Association, Kingston.

The artist who studied in Clearwater, Florida, was a student of the late Julius Gentelen of Catskill. She enjoys working in varied techniques and mediums to portray the feeling and mood of each painting. She has exhibited many of her works locally and in the south.

Horse Epidemic Spreads, National Emergency Declared

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — An epidemic of sleeping sickness among horses, described as a national emergency by Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin, appears to be spreading deeper into Texas.

The disease, called Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE) jumped the border after progressing from South America northward through Mexico.

Floods Kill 20

SEOUL (UPI) — More than five inches of rain fell on Seoul Friday night and early today, setting off mudslides and floods that took at least 20 lives and injured 13.

Police said the storm flooded more than 400 houses.

and is blamed for killing 200 animals in this state's Lower Rio Grande Valley.

In appraising the situation, Hardin said in Washington on Friday that his department will spend whatever it takes to combat the malady. Major weapons being used in defense of 500,000 or more horses in Texas are a vaccine supplied by the government and aerial spraying against mosquitoes which spread VEE.

While the disease nearly always kills horses, human beings, who contract it usually recover.

A 6-year-old girl died Wednesday at Wilford Hall Air Force Medical Center in San Antonio from what was believed to be a form of encephalomyelitis. A spokesman said tests for VEE were being made but it was unlikely that variety caused her death.

Health officials report three Texas residents were known to have been stricken with VEE and there are 39 suspected cases.

In Mexico, the disease left an estimated 9,000 horses dead and 2,584 persons ill in the 15 days ending July 13, authorities said. The affected area embraced two states, San Luis Potosi and Tamaulipas.

No Special Treatment For Berrigan Brothers

DANBURY Conn. (UPI) — An official of the federal prison where antiwar priests Philip and Daniel Berrigan are serving sentences says they will receive "no special treatment" when they're considered for parole soon.

Associate Warden Frank Williams of the federal penitentiary also said Friday, "Their conduct has been good — no special problems."

Federal Parole Examiner James W. Jones of Washington

will begin a review of 30 to 40 cases next week before making any recommendations for parole. Williams said the cases of the Berrigans natives of Syracuse, N.Y. are included in the group.

U.S. Parole Board Chairman George J.M. Reed said Tuesday in Washington the hearing on the application for parole by the Berrigans would be held routinely at the board's bimonthly meeting July 23. This is because both brothers become eligible for parole before the next regular meeting in September.

The Rev. Philip Berrigan 48, has served the required one-third of a six-year term and a three and one-half year concurrent term for violating the Selective Service Act by destroying draft records in Baltimore and Catonsville Md. He becomes eligible for parole on Sept. 14 and is due for mandatory release Feb. 14, 1972.

His brother the Rev. Daniel Berrigan, 50 will have served one year of a three year sentence stemming from the Catonsville incident when he becomes eligible for parole Aug. 10. His mandatory release date is Nov. 23, 1972.

Philip also is one of eight war foes under indictment for an alleged conspiracy to kidnap presidential advisor Henry A. Kissinger and blow up heating tunnels under federal buildings in Washington.

Peace Corps Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Peace Corps expects 26,000 volunteers this year, a gain of 7,000 over 1970.

Director Joseph H. Blatchford said Friday the increase marks the first upturn in requests, applications and volunteers in five years.

Democrats Hoping to Salvage Half of Public Works Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats said today they were hopeful of salvaging half of a $2 billion job-making emergency public works program vetoed this week by President Nixon.

Democratic sources said the salvage plan involved writing the public works program into an Economic Development Act (EDA), which was part of the vetoed bill but which the President asked be revived in new legislation.

Staff members of the House and Senate Public Works Committees planned to work over the weekend drafting the new public works measure, the sources said. They said Rep. John Blatnik, D-Minn., and Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., the committee chairmen, held meetings during the week to plan the job-making bill revision.

Nixon vetoed the $2 billion bill on grounds it would not generate a significant number of jobs for 18 months and would waste money. The Senate failed to override the veto, falling short by five votes.

Sponsors of the $2 billion public works bill contended it would relieve unemployment by creating 150,000 jobs to build projects such as hospitals, other public buildings and dams.

The vetoed measure included a four year extension, with a $1.5 billion authorization, of the popular Appalachian regional development program and a $1.9 billion two year extension of the Economic Development Act which provides grants and loans to businesses in depressed areas.

Blatnik and Randolph will weave the accelerated program into the EDA forcing Nixon into a take it or leave it position but offering a compromise on his spending objection by cutting the original $2 billion proposal in half, the sources said.

The Democrats hoped to take advantage of new language that was put in the EDA section of the vetoed bill which liberalized the requirements for a redevelopment area in order to qualify for the loans and grants.

The language said that in addition to "redevelopment areas," there could be "special impact" areas eligible for aid on the basis of, among other things, "substantial unemployment."

The plan calls for the Senate committee to approve the measure, possibly by next Thursday, and seek quick Senate approval after which the House would act on the Senate bill.

Finish Repairs On Swim Pool In Ellenville

ELLENVILLE — "Good progress" is being made on the repairs to the swimming pool at the Ellenville School, according to Ellenville Superintendent of Schools Thomas J. Hayden.

The repairs were made by the McDole Construction Co., and have been mostly completed.

The valves have now been turned on to fill the pool, according to Hayden.

Hayden hopes the pool will be ready for use Monday, after it reaches a level at which the recirculation process can be begun.

The pool will have a full staff, Hayden said.

Youth Arrested; Fired Shotgun On Abeel Street

KINGSTON — Kingston police arrested 18-year-old Martin Wells of 21 Abeel Street Friday night after it was alleged that the youth fired several shotgun blasts in the air during an altercation with another man.

Wells was arrested and charged with second degree reckless endangerment. He was held in lieu of $1,000 bail pending a court hearing today.

The fight was reported at about 7:40 p.m. in front of 24 Abeel Street. No injuries were reported.

Man Accused Of Stabbing Hotel Employee

ELLENVILLE
A 56-year-old resort hotel employee was in the Ulster County jail today without bail awaiting grand jury action on a charge of assault first degree that stemmed from a stabbing incident late Thursday night.

State Police Sergeant J. A. Fitzgerald said Arthur Garner Rogers, an employee at the Lake Minnewaska Mountain House, is accused of stabbing 26-year-old Leroy Stoddard, another employee at the resort, during an argument at 11:30 p.m. yesterday in the kitchen area of the hotel.

Stoddard was taken to the Ellenville Community Hospital suffering from knife wounds of the lower abdomen. His condition was listed as fair.

Rogers was arraigned before Rochester Town Justice Raymond Lawrence. He was committed to the county jail and the case was referred to the grand jury for further investigation. Troopers J. E. Kelly and J. P. Dunning made the arrest.

City Library Summer Plans

KINGSTON
A summer reading program for children began this week at the Kingston Area Library.

The program is called Moon Walk and is for children from grades three through six. All area children who are interested in doing summer reading may join this program which will help them keep a record of the books they have read.

Each participant is given a "Moon Walk" chart which he fills in with stickers called "Giant Steps". One giant step is given for each book read. At the end of the program, in August each child will be awarded a reading achievement certificate.

Children participating may select any book they want to read and will receive help in their selections from Mrs. William Marke, children's librarian. Summer hours at the children's library at Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Summer hours have been announced for the Kingston Area Library.

Main library will be open Monday through Thursday 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Friday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Children's Library will be open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The facility will close Saturday. Books from the Children's Library may be returned to the main library at any time.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Much that is new and untried enters the picture for you now. It is essential that you consider matters carefully and not go off on any tangents, or you could lose the benefits of excellent aspects otherwise in effect. Make a point of showing you value the goodwill of influential persons.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Spend time gathering needed information instead of arguing with others or trying to make any new plans with friends now. Go to the right sources. This is the time to start expanding.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be patient in dealing with others who are in a rather trying mood. Stick to practical affairs. Good day for purchases, but make sure they are the right ones.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You must personally go after what you need for success if you are to get it. Avoid social activities now. Contact only those who can give you the assistance you need.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Quit procrastinating and put that plan to work that will bring you success. Get advice from experts, but do not confide in others. Make the most of your potentials.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Find the right answers to questions that have had you puzzled for a long time. You can now gain gains the goodwill of kin and others very easily. Buy the little gifts for relatives that please them. Entertain them in your own unique way.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people who will have an interesting life because of the fine judgment here and the protection of bigwigs, along with the desire to be involved in all kinds of fascinating new projects and the ability to make right decisions. The government, diplomatic service, real estate, sales and similar occupations would be fine as a life career. Make sure that your child goes to the right college for him or her.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for August is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast, The Daily Freeman, Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The gypsy moth, a destructive insect whose larvae defoliate deciduous and evergreen trees, was brought to Massachusetts from Europe around 1869 and became a serious pest in 1889. The World Almanac notes. It has been confined to the northeastern United States by import of insect parasites, use of insecticides and quarantine.

Good Life for Hair Style

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Julius Bengtsson leads a pretty good life. He is young, nice looking, makes good money and is constantly in the company of some of the most beautiful and famous women in the world. Bengtsson, Canadian-born and a Swedish citizen (he grew up there), is a widely-known personal hair stylist who has based in Hollywood and, as much, numbers among his customers many regular and occasional television headlines, as well as prominent women in other fields. He has to be ready to travel, and he is. Consider: "Jack Benny," he says, "sent me to Europe as a surprise for his wife Mary. He was going to Europe to do two Des O'Connor television shows, and he wanted her to come with him. She had a bad back, and he wanted to make it easier on her so she wouldn't have to go out to a hairdresser. So he asked me if I wanted to go on ahead and wait for her in the lobby of the Dorchester Hotel in London when she arrived. He thought it would be a nice surprise. I did it. And I cut his hair too. Among Bengtsson's other customers are Hope Lange (who'll be in Dick Van Dyke's new fall series), Zsa Zsa Gabor, Pat Crowley, Rita Hayworth, Irene Dunne, Barbara Rush, Laine Kazan, Anne Baxter and Nancy Reagan, wife of California Gov. Ronald Reagan. Bengtsson describes some of his notable customers as follows: —Miss Lange: "Very easy to work with. Basically conservative." —Zsa Zsa: "fabulous. She just wants to be very glamorous." —Mrs. Reagan: "Conservative."

"Your spies haven't actually seen those cards in the East hand, have they?"

"No Sir. They have told me that East opened the bidding and experience tells me that he would not have done so without both those cards."

The general believed his officer and was able to work out a winning plan. He started by ducking one spade to make sure that East had not started with six spades. The general won the second spade; led a diamond to dummy's king; finessed his jack of diamonds; cashed the ace of diamonds; played out the three high hearts and was ready for operation end play. He led his last spade.

East collected three more spade tricks but was now left with the king and jack of clubs and had to lead up dummy's ace-queen.

The general would have been set if East started with a

Savago Wants No Part of Dog Problem

City Pounds on County Door

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

"The county should not get involved in any way with dogs," Chairman of the Ulster County Legislature Peter J. Savago said in a letter this week to Louis F. DeCicco, Kingston city clerk, who has been urging a joint city-county dog pound venture.

Undaunted, DeCicco said he will now contact the supervisors of the four towns which surround the city and ask them to meet with the city to discuss the feasibility of a joint venture. They include Hurley, Town of Ulster, Town of Kingston and Esopus.

In his letter to DeCicco, Savago said it is the opinion of the majority of the legislators that the dog problem is not the concern of the county as a whole. The dog problem evolved when it was announced that the contracts between the city, county and the SPCA had been canceled over differences.

DeCicco said that meanwhile he has been trying to hire a dog warden and find a facility for the animals but to date, without success. He said he would like to secure a warden and a facility on a temporary basis to give everyone concerned more time to come to a lasting solution.

Stressing that "our problem is the same as the towns," DeCicco suggested that each can go on its own or, possibly the city can get the towns to form a joint venture which would create one facility with each unit of government paying its own share and having its own dog warden.

Asked what is happening to dog control presently, DeCicco said the SPCA is "still a humane society and I imagine they would honor their pledge." He said the association has always acted in the city even when Kingston had its own dog warden. He explained that the contract with the SPCA was strictly for the administration of the dog ordinance.

The dog problem arose after the SPCA voted on June 1 to cancel its contracts with the city and the county as of July 1. The city's contract was for $10,000 and the county's for $7,000 for animal control with the humane society headquarters at Brabant Road in the Town of Ulster.

The SPCA notified the city and the county that the contracts were illegal because they do not contain a provision allowing the State Department of Agriculture and Markets to procure animals from the SPCA for scientific experimentation purposes.

Savago maintains that the problem is not the county and that individual towns and the city should take care of their own canine problems.

18-Year Old Registration Falls Below Expectations

KINGSTON

Newly eligible voters in the 18 to 20 year old age group whose voting franchise was recently extended to elections for state and local as well as federal offices have been somewhat lethargic in exercising the privilege.

To date, only 16 per cent of 150,000 out of 900,000 potential voters have registered, according to a sampling taken in New York State by the headquarters for McGovern for President Committee in New York City.

The U.S. Census Bureau estimates that as a result of the lower voting age, 954,000 potential new voters will be eligible to participate in the 1972 New York State elections and 11,159,000 in elections nationwide.

Those who met registration and enrollment deadlines will be able to participate in this year's primary and general elections. The new voting age also applies to school board elections and votes on school budgets.

The potential new voters represent seven and one-half per cent of the approximately 12,714,000 persons of voting age in New York State or 15 1/2 per cent of the 6,150,477 who voted for governor in New York State in 1970.

Primary elections will be held Sept. 14. New voters who wish to vote in the primaries will have to be registered and also enrolled in the political party of their choice by 30 days before that date, that is by Aug. 15.

Oct. 2 is the last day for registration of new voters who wish to vote this fall in the general elections for county, city and town offices.

Registration of youthful voters has already been underway since the Voting Rights Act of 1970, as interpreted by the U.S. Supreme Court extended the franchise to those 18 and older for elections to federal offices in 1972.

In related legislation, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller signed a bill which will, beginning July 1, 1972, make persons between the ages of 18 and 20 years of age eligible to act as election inspectors.

The governor has also signed a bill providing that a person who is attending an institution of learning does not automatically gain residency for voting purposes in that community. To determine an individual's eligibility, the local election board is authorized to take account of such things as his financial status, income sources, residence of his parents, spouse and children, location of his real and personal property, motor vehicle registration and any other pertinent factors it deems necessary.

Emphasis on lowering the voting age has occasioned interest in a number of states in a more sweeping change—lowering the age of majority to 18 so that in addition to the voting rights, the 18-year-old would have the rights of an adult citizen to make binding legal contracts, to sue and be sued, and to make will.

Lack of Communication Evident at City Hall

"One thing about Koenig," an alderman who isn't all that fond of the mayor, related to us several weeks ago, "he sits down with us and discusses things before he goes public. Ray never used to do that." (Ray, is, of course, former Mayor Garraghan).

Mayor Koenig has had remarkable success with the Common Council for just that reason: he doesn't spring surprises on the aldermen.

The Koenig method has been the "team approach." Talk it over with the aldermen, both Republican and Democrats. Get their views. That method serves the obvious purpose of giving the mayor an accurate advance reading on any legislation he might want to get through the Council. It also tends to negate unexpected public criticism from the aldermen. In other words, if the guy sounds off on the Council floor, the mayor can come back to him and ask why he didn't voice that particular objection in private at one of their meetings. The guy usually winds up feeling like a jerk.

Things seem to be changing, though. Some of the aldermen are getting that Ray Garraghan feeling: They're not sure what the chief executive is up to.

The Corbetta-Andretta thing is an example.

THE CORBETTA firm was in town two weeks ago to outline their plans for a four and a half million dollar, 180 unit high rise apartment complex in the Uptown urban renewal project off Washington Avenue. That meeting was arranged by the mayor and the urban renewal agency.

Corbetta's proposal sounded pretty good except to Cliff Sinsabaugh, chairman of the Urban Renewal Committee of the Common Council: It was the first time he'd heard of it. Sinsabaugh accused the mayor, the agency and the Corbetta company of collusion.

The meeting broke up without any firm action being taken but later, Sinsabaugh's position must have hardened. He now says he has four votes in his seven-man Urban Renewal Committee—Flo Ludlow, Ed Roux, Mike Perry and himself—against Corbetta. That's enough to bury it in Sinsabaugh's committee.

The mood, as we gauged it after that presentation meeting with Corbetta seemed to be one of general—"it's worth a good look"—acceptance by the aldermen.

A meeting was scheduled by Sinsabaugh for this past Tuesday night. According to Sinsabaugh, the mayor, alderman-at-large and corporation counsel were invited. None, according to Sinsabaugh, bothered to answer his invitation. The mayor later explained that he had another meeting.

THE ANDRETTA THING was brought to public light via mayoral press conference last winter. The mayor practically insisted on taking personal credit for putting the two and a half million dollar, 190-unit apartment complex off Flatbush Avenue package together. It was yet another example of the Koenig Administration's drive to bring new housing to Kingston and to thereby regain some of the lost thousands in population during the '60s.

Koenig quickly followed that with an 11th hour request for the Council to approve a sewage lift station for the Flatbush Avenue area where Andretta's project would go. The aldermen didn't like it but they gave the board of public works permission to draw up specifications for the lift station.

Now, it seems, Mr. Andretta has other plans, plans for shifting the whole "Dutch Village" Project (as he called his Flatbush Avenue proposal) over to the Uptown urban renewal area. There was no mayoral press conference on that, the facts being sniffed out by several newsmen about two weeks ago.

Sinsabaugh also reacted adversely to that bit of information terming the Andretta switch "a breach of faith" with the city. Now, the Mayor says Andretta plans two projects—one off Flatbush and one in the urban renewal area. Dutch Village will go uptown.

Obviously, Sinsabaugh was surprised again and angry. And he isn't the only one. Two surprises in two weeks.

The two branches of government, executive and legislative, seem to be drifting apart. It's time they got together again. There's too much at stake to be lost by petty bickering.

DEMO CONVENTION — Political conventions remind us of family reunions. Everyone is on a first name basis and all the best of buddies, on the surface. Beneath the surface, this one is remembering how that one double-crossed him at the '65 convention and trying to figure how he can get even this year. Or maybe next year.

Rarely are the issues discussed. There always seems to be some kind of a personality conflict going.

This year's was supposed to be Downtown against Uptown, a fertile area.

The downtowners had it in for the Screening Committee that chose legislators to run city wide this year. It seems John Lucci and Gene Perry were nominated in the 10th Ward but ignored by the committee.

Plans were made to nominate both men from the floor and (hopefully) throw the convention into turmoil. Those plans fell through, however, as the planners supporting the screening committee, had more pull than the planners supporting the 10th Ward delegation.

On the surface, all went smoothly, the would be nominators from the floor, staying in their seats. It was a triumph for the screening committee and its supporters. But triumphs are never final in politics. Next year, the downtowners will be seeking ways to get even. There has to be a better way of doing things.

Strikes in Key Industries

By United Press International

A grim picture was painted on the labor scene today as selective strikes against the Union Pacific and Southern Railroads moved into the second day. Management officials retaliated against the United Transportation Union by imposing new work rules—the reason for the dispute—on other railroads.

The new rules Friday resulted in the mass firings of employees on other railroads and tremendous pay cuts for those still on the job.

The Nixon administration called union and management back together today to try and end the decade-old fight over the work rules, with hopes of resolving the issues before the strike spread. The UTU next week could walk out on three more railroads.

However, the walkout against the railroads Friday morning was just another thorn in the side of a nation suffering under strikes.

A half million telephone workers remained out of work today; the copper industry, with little progress, attempted to reach a settlement in a strike which has idled 39,000; 25 West Coast ports remained closed because of a longshoremen's strike with no talks scheduled, and similar stalemates were reported in strikes against the telegraph and farm manufacturing industries.

Adding to the headaches was an announcement by Assistant Labor Secretary William J. Usery Jr., Friday that he has called union representatives and the new postal service together for round-the-clock talks on a contract.

The semi-private U.S. Postal Service took over the mails July 1 and Congress wrote all labor agreements for the nation's mailmen. But the 750,000 workers want job security and wages remain an issue. The Postal Service said it considers the deadline for the new contract to be midnight Sunday. If an agreement is not reached the issues are to go to final arbitration.

The nation's labor disputes have become further complicated by sabotage, vandalism, violence and arrests in the telephone strike. The railroad strike has halted the shipments of hundreds of cars of wheat from Kansas and Nebraska and the shipping strike has cost thousands of dollars a day in lost port fees.

In the telephone strike, talks were continuing on a local basis at various points across the nation, but with little progress.

Miss New York Thrives on Applause

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP) —

Minutes after receiving the Miss New York State crown and a hearty ovation from the audience in Olean High School, Elizabeth Condon was admitting she had a special weakness for applause.

Maybe that's why the brown-eyed brunette picked the theme of the Broadway musical "Applause" for her modern dance number in the pageant's talent section.

The audience took the hint that all and interrupted her energetic performance several times with claps of approval.

Miss Condon, known to friends as Lizzie, didn't mind that at all.

"It makes you feel more warm and comfortable and at home and that's most important," she explained.

The applause she expected, she said, because of the large rooting section from her nearby hometown of Angola. But winning the title was a shock. "I don't believe it," she repeated in a stunned tone when Katherine Karlrud, the retiring state queen, handed over the crown.

"I got it. Mom, I got it," she yelled to Mrs. Robert R. Condon beyond the footlights.

Besides the title, the 21-year-old senior at Niagara University was awarded a $1,000 scholarship, $3,500 in merchandise and the right to represent New York State in the Miss America pageant later this summer.

Miss Condon also carries the title Miss Niagara.

Named first runner-up from the ten finalists was Marie A. Sica, Miss Thousand Islands of East Meadow, N.Y.

Others cited were Georgianna Dacre, Miss Rockland County, second runner-up; Michelle Forbes, Miss Amherst, third runner-up; and Deborah Earsing, Miss Greater Lancaster, fourth runner-up.

A contestant with a broken leg — Laurie Jean Allen — was presented the "Miss Congeniality" award. Her fellow contestants voted her the prize for the good spirits she showed in spite of her injury.

Letting out a squeal of delight when the award was announced, Miss Batavia hobbled proudly to the microphone to accept the honor.

County Farm Park Site Tests Safe for Bathing

NEW PALTZ

The results of the water sampling done at the proposed park site on the Wallkill at the Ulster County Farm have been released by the Ulster County Department of Health.

According to the results released by Harold Pinckney, Public Health Sanitarian, the tests show the Wallkill at the site of the proposed park to be safe for bathing.

Pinckney noted the National Technical Advisory Committee recommends that the Fecal Coliform Count shall not exceed 200 per 100 milliliters, with no more than 10 per cent of the sample counts equalling or exceeding 400 Fecal Coliform per 100 ML.

The results of the Wallkill tests "well in that range" according to Pinckney.

Pinckney's test results would seem to contradict the results of samplings taken by the New Paltz High School Earth Committee, which has stated the Wallkill is "little more than an open sewer" for much of its length.

The proposed park, put forward by County Legislator Louis H. Bevier, would serve the New Paltz-Gardiner area. Bevier is proposing bathing and boating facilities and a picnic area for the site, with an access road to be built.

Bevier said he was "doubly pleased" by the test results, "because at the time the tests were taken I was pessimistic as to their results since some unofficial groups have been publishing test results showing the Wallkill to be grossly polluted."

Bevier emphasized that the test results were only reliable for the area tested, and other parts of the Wallkill might be unsuitable for bathing.

As to the effect the test results might have on the park plan, Bevier said, "These tests results certainly give this plan a boost."

Klein Won't Seek Re-election

KINGSTON

County Democratic Chairman Aaron E. Klein announced today that he will not seek re-election to that post when his term runs out this fall.

Klein, who also serves as Kingston corporation counsel, notified members of the county Democratic committee by letter on Monday, following the County Democratic Convention on Saturday.

A lively battle is expected in choosing Klein's successor, with James J. McCordie of Hurley, former city chairman, and Thomas R. Lyle, also a former city chairman, vying for the post.

Klein, in his letter to the committee, said: "It has been some eight years since I first assumed the chairmanship of the Ulster County Democratic Committee. These have been eight very eventful years. History records that in that span, our party achieved some of its greatest successes. These include the election of a Congressman (twice); election of a Sheriff ("twice, and with a certainty of a third term impending") and sundry other steps in forward progress, including breakthroughs in areas heretofore considered unshakably Republican. Our accomplishments are even more outstanding I feel because they were made in the face of declining successes in our State Party and in our National Party.

"There is no way that I can adequately describe my sense of pride and gratitude for having been at the helm during most of this period. Now I have reached the point where I find it necessary and advisable to curtail some of my activities so that I may devote more time and attention to my family and business affairs.

"I have decided not to seek re-election as Ulster County Democratic Chairman. I feel that there is a wealth of material from which my successor may be selected. This is not meant to suggest that I will not be willing or available for further services to the Party and to the extent that I am requested to do so. I will be happy to participate in the fortunes of our great Party in the future.

"To those of you who were so helpful in so many ways during those eight years, particularly during my stewardship of Party affairs, I offer my sincere thanks. May the party continue to prosper and grow," Klein concluded.

Behind the Seams At the Woodstock Playhouse

A RARE BIRD indeed these days is the girl who runs away from home to join the circus. But pretty British bird Elaine did just that, because of her love for horses. Later, she turned riding instructress after attending equitation school; displays her skills here in a London park with Michael Sarne (L), writer-director of "Joanna" and "Myra Breckinridge," and another friend in the theater.

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

In absolutely no time flat, she whipped up a dazzling wedding gown for the bride, a fancy wedding dress for the mother of the bride, and an assortment of uniforms for the waiters and bellhops. The occasion was a make-believe trek down the aisle for the stage comedy hit, "Plaza Suite," but the girl behind the seams, talented Elaine Frank, made it all seem like a scene from real life.

Elaine, as stunningly attractive as she is creatively sharp with a needle, sewing machine or fashion design, heads up the costume department at Woodstock Playhouse this season. Her bridal party attire for "Plaza Suite," the opening show last month, proved her adeptness and ability for her job.

The hurry-up wedding gown for "Suite," however, was almost no challenge at all for Elaine. Designing a myriad of costumes for "Man of La Mancha" last season was far tougher, she says. And the work on the 1930's clothes for "Cabaret" would certainly have floored a less dedicated designer. For that musical, she turned out the required costumes on a short eight days notice—but admits she put in 140 hours in one week to accomplish the task.

From London to Catskills

How did a girl pretty enough to give Raquel Welch a run for her money get to a summer stock theater in the Catskills from her native London, England?

First off, at the very youthful age of 14, she was accepted to study at the City of London Guild of Arts and Crafts, concentrating on art in general rather than just design in particular. Within two years, she was good enough to apprentice with a London couture house; spent several seasons there while doing free lance work on the side.

It was inevitable that fashion photographers would spot her; persuade her to do some modeling. Then came a stint as a beauty consultant and demonstrator with a major cosmetics firm.

But, with a booming career building, Elaine Frank chucked it all to run off and join a circus. Fascinated with horses, she envisioned herself as a big top equestrienne. Harsh reality ended the dream when she found the pay was "too little"

and the living conditions were "horrendous."

Back to Horses

Forsaking the circus for the theatre, she also forsook design for a job as assistant stage manager with a touring company, but kept her hand in by dabbling in high styles on a part-time basis. Still drawn to horses, she eventually opted for equitation school with the aim of becoming a riding instructress. After a period of teaching riding in London's Hyde Park, she "gave up horses" and turned to a new interest—stylizing furniture in room settings for photographers.

In the long run, however, designing clothes won out. After more than four years in the U.S.—most of it in Woodstock—she's thoroughly enjoying her Playhouse assignment.

Enjoying it even though she knows that "Fiddler on the Roof" (booked for the first two weeks in August) "will be hard to costume." The quantity involved alone is a challenge in itself. "There'll be 30 or more actors to costume," she says, "and we'll have to build them from scratch, since the script doesn't call for just peasant type things."

Even more inventiveness is being called for in the costuming of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," the musical set in ancient Rome and opening for two weeks next Tuesday. The specific challenge here is in dreaming up clothes for the six "ladies of the evening" that will demonstrate the particular taste of each.

'Dracula' Was Fun

To date, however, out of the entire 1971 schedule at Woodstock, she has enjoyed costuming the current "Dracula" the most.

When she's not designing for the Playhouse, she sometimes sells her originally designed clothes in local boutiques. But, because she is also the mother of a young baby, she prefers to make her clothes on order.

It follows that she never buys ready-to-wear; makes all of her own clothes. She also likes to wear hand-me-downs and dotes on dress-up costumes. While wearing an old-fashioned, flowered hat and other costumery one day last summer and out for a walk with her toddler daughter, she was snapped by a visiting photographer. The picture he took ended up in the pages of Life magazine last week as one of the runner-up prize winners in a nationwide contest.

Doing the costumes at Woodstock hasn't resulted in Elaine's being bitten by the show biz bug. If present plans pan out, she'd like to go into the whole-

PHOTO OF ELAINE FRANK, taken at the height of her professional modeling career, proves beyond a shadow of a doubt that she's as beautiful as any of the actresses who now wear Frank-designed clothes or costumes.

PHOTOGENIC ELAINE and baby daughter, Angie, were caught in a playful mood by New York City photographer who spotted them in Woodstock. The shot was entered in a Life magazine photography contest; won a runner-up nomination in competition that saw hundreds of thousands of amateurs submitting work.

PENSIVE RATHER THAN PLAYFUL is the mood of this photo of Angie and Elaine. It also serves to illustrate that the lady whose clothing designs are admired and coveted by many customers, much prefers dress up costumes personally; often wears hand-me-downs. Two-and-a-half-year-old Angie prefers even less in the way of attire on a hot day.

Summer's for Everybody—But Mostly for Kids

19—THE DAILY FREEMAN, JULY 17, 1971

THE STORY OF SUMMER is written in the sand and its musical background is the sound of waves. What pony-tailed little girl anywhere could resist the tune of the season played by the surf against the shore — or the chance to bake a sand pie in the sun?

THE CALENDAR IS RIGHT and they've found summer's essence distilled in the sun, sand and surf. After a picnic lunch with the family, what could be more fun than frolicking in the waves — or more satisfying than feeling the water pull the unprotesting sand from beneath bare toes?

AN ELEPHANT is a thing of beauty and mystery to a child — and this pinafored tyke, like millions of others every summer, gets a close up view of a jumbo-sized model in one of New York State's zoos.

WHEN SPEAKING of little girls in the summertime, one must speak, too, of balloons. No bauble is so dear to the female of the species at this early age — and it'll be many a moon before she'll find a diamond more attractive than a helium-filled ball tied to a string.

SINCE THERE'S NO SALT SHAKER in evidence in this photo, smiling lad must be a chip off the old Dr. Doolittle block; long since learned bird language.

THE CURTIS STRING QUARTET

Concert to Remember By a Superb Quartet

Once again, Woodstock's Maverick Hall will be filled with the inspired music making of the Curtis String Quartet. The superb ensemble returns to the stage of the rustic Hall after a year's absence this Sunday, July 11, at 3 p.m.

Always to be counted on for excellence year in and year out and, only short years ago, a special highlight of the Maverick's golden anniversary year, the Curtis still boasts three of its original founders: Jascha Brodsky, Max Aronoff and Orlando Cole. Joining this distinguished trio in 1969 was the fine violinist, Yumi Ninomiya.

The Curtis Quartet alone is all that is required to round out any program. But Sunday's Maverick concert boasts a bonus in the appearance of Glenford cellist, Lachlan Pitcairn, who will join the four musicians in an offering of the Schubert Quintet in C. Other works for the afternoon will include music by Mozart and Webern.

Oldest and Best

One of the oldest chamber music groups in the U.S., the Curtis is also one of the best known. Touring both here and abroad, the aggregation has presented more than 2,500 concerts in 20 years. Famed for their classical repertoire and the sweep and style with which they perform, they have demonstrated that each individual member is a virtuoso. Musical critics constantly laud the unity of thought, tonal blending and exceptional technique of the group.

In this "most perfectly balanced quartet ever assembled," first violinist Brodsky was a concert veteran of the U.S. and Europe before joining the group; second violinist Ninomiya made her professional debut in Japan at the age of 13 with symphony orchestras, and has been soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra; violinist Aronoff is founder-director of the New School of Music and the Curtis Institute, and has taught many of the country's finest musicians; and cellist Cole has appeared as guest artist with all major symphony orchestras, in recitals, and on radio and TV.

It's Time Again For ASL Exhibit

It's time again for that always interesting ANNUAL WOODSTOCK RESIDENTS EXHIBITION. Following past tradition, the show will include the work of artists who are former students and instructors of the Art Students League (both the Woodstock and New York City branches) and who now reside in Woodstock.

The exhibit opens tomorrow, Sunday, July 18 at the gallery of the League on its summer school campus, Route 212, Woodstock. An opening party, replete with punch bowl and refreshments and open to the public, is slated from 4 to 7 p.m. tomorrow.

Following the gala kick-off, the show will remain on view to the public through Aug. 6.

Ox Carts and Sleighs Locust Lawn Features

Even though you're probably one of the many TEMPO readers who has visited the historic Locust Lawn House, it's possible you have not been there recently enough to enjoy two new additions.

Locust Lawn, built in 1814 by Col. Josiah Hasbrouck and located on Route 32, four miles south of New Paltz, now boasts a farm museum and wildlife sanctuary.

For two years, effort has been put into developing a farm museum as part of the Locust Lawn tour. Illustrating the importance of transportation in the early days of the country, the museum now features an ox car once used to transport produce from the Wallkill Valley to Valley Forge during the Revolutionary War. Early sleighs and other vehicles are also on display. Among the carriages at Locust Lawn is one used by the members of an earlier family with places reserved for a driver and footman.

Intriguing, too, are a variety of articles used by 19th century farmers, among them a dog churn, wooden forks, carpenter's tools, churns, cider press, butter making implements and a two-wheel cart.

The house itself has been furnished to enable visitors to see how a family of means lived around 1830.

TEMPO recommends a visit to Locust Lawn as a pleasant experience, and reminds you that the tour should include the "Little Wings" wildlife sanctuary near the house. Locust Lawn is open each day of the week, except Monday.

"YOUR SHIELD OF SECURITY"

Togas and Sandals Of Early Rome for Woodstock Playhouse

A fellow named Hero is one of the heroes in "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." As such, he strikes his share of hilarious Roman poses in the musical comedy, opening at the Woodstock Playhouse Tuesday, July 20.

One of the funniest and most successful of all Broadway hits, "Forum" is expected to be such a smash locally that it will hold forth on the art colony stage for two full weeks, not ringing down the curtain on its musical shenanigans until Aug. 1.

"Funny Thing" is both funny and tuneful, and the Playhouse cast is a youthful and enthusiastic bunch of actors who will keep you royally entertained as they romp on stage in their togas and sandals.

Set in those ancient days when the columns of the Coliseum newly gleamed in the Roman sun, "Forum" is totally enjoyable summer entertainment. Roman lads and lassies cut capers aplenty in this singing, dancing laughfest.

Audiences have praised productions of the show and the movie version around the globe since the original Broadway presentation opened with Zero Mostel in the lead, cavorting with gusto, parading across the stage and switching moods with impish glee. "Forum" is also a show in which the character roles are important; must come through loud and clear. The Woodstock cast can be expected to excel; has ample experience to cope with the demands of the lively script.

"Funny Thing" is a very funny thing, indeed, from its excellent beginning to its rip roaring ending, and local audiences can be expected to demand encore after encore with brisk curtain call clapping. This is an energetic and youthful show with memorable characters, including and old fool and his wife and a lovable slave. It has a singable score and a racy script peopled with courtesans and guards and a buyer and seller of courtesans, who's pure "camp."

Don't miss "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," and remember that, in addition to regularly scheduled performances, this Woodstock musical will play two performances on Saturday, July 24 and 31, at a pre-dinner 5 p.m. and a post-dinner 9 p.m.

And, remember, too, that if you have not yet seen "DRACULA," that most famous and successful horror play of them all, is still chilling Woodstock Playhouse audiences through tomorrow, Sunday, July 18.

All about a blood-sucking vampire, it's true to the original version that opened back in 1927. Blithely blood-curdling in its horror, it's kept audiences quaking delightedly over the years, as Count Dracula—more aristocratic nobleman than monster—has exerted his hypnotic charm over his female victims.

HAPPY and ARTIE TRAUM, folksinging brothers who will appear in the Monday Night Series at Woodstock Playhouse on July 19 at 8:30 p. m. (David Gahr photo).

Folk-Rocking Traums For Monday's Series

Happy and Artie Traum, the talented Woodstock brothers whose singing and playing has been a joyous part of the folk-rock scene, open the Monday Night Series at Woodstock Playhouse on July 19 at 8:30 p.m.

The Traums abandoned New York City for Woodstock some 10 years ago, and since then their music has reflected that move with an excitement that has appealed to audiences everywhere.

"They have a blithe and easy-going manner," the NEW YORK TIMES has written, "and a style strongly colored by a plaintive country sound. Their songs, for the most part their own creations, often are based on traditional themes, but the Traum brothers build them to express wry, untraditional points of view. They provided the spark that turned a pleasant informal program into an exciting one."

Before coming to Woodstock, the Traum brothers played with such groups as New York Public Library, Children of Paradise and Bear, with whom they released an album in 1967, and with whom they composed and performed the soundtrack for the movie, GREETINGS. They now have an album out on the Capital label entitled, "Happy and Artie Traum."

In reviewing the album, the WASHINGTON POST said, "The Traums helped sew the seeds of rock when the music was in its embryonic stage. The two brothers were regular performers at Izzy Young's Greenwich Village Folklore Center hoots, where their good friend, Bob Dylan, also got his start. This record is an almost perfect example of what the term folk-rock is all about: folk-style material that has been embellished with basic rock instrumentation. The result is an album that reflects the peace of two New York City boys who (literally) headed for the hills and settled there."

The philosophy of the brothers Traum is best expressed in their own words.

Happy says, "We live, and build, and sing our songs . . . and try to make new friends where we can."

Their many friends will undoubtedly flock to this concert at the Playhouse Monday.

Oscar Pact

NBC and the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences have extended for another two years the pact for televising the annual Oscar Awards program. The present contract still has two years to go, so the extension takes the agreement through 1975.

SUZANNE LEDERER is appearing in "Dracula," the horror classic about a vampire and his victim currently on stage at the Woodstock Playhouse through tomorrow night. It will be followed by Stephen Sondheim's "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," the musical opening Tuesday, July 20.

OPEN DAILY 9-5:30 — FRIDAY 9-9

JENNIFER O'NEIL portrays an "older woman" of 22 who is the object of a teenage crush by a boy just discovering the meaning of life in "SUMMER OF '42," premiering currently at both the local Community Theater and Hyde Park's Roosevelt.

MOVIES

Summer of '42

Move over O'Neal, MacGraw, "Love Story," et al! Here comes a film to challenge your box office ratings. And, in this writer's view, soars with far more nostalgia and relevance than ever did Harvard and Radcliffe in the '60s.

"Summer of '42," now playing at both Kingston's Community and Hyde Park's Roosevelt, is an excursion down memory lane for some—and an open door to the innocent delights of a generation ago for others. But, even more to the point as a pertinent movie, it's a simple human comedy with a timeless feeling.

Admittedly, we are of the generation it extols. Even so, we must insist that its story is as true today as it was in '42 and as it will be tomorrow. "Love Story" was not—unless you happened to be one of the few poor but pretty charmers lucky enough to meet up with a millionaire and send him head over heels.

The Time-Honored Way

For us, watching the young teenage boys in "Summer" learn about life in the time-honored tradition of thumbing through a stolen medical manual, served to remind us that only the calendar has changed since we were young and gay.

The film stars three newcomers—Gary Grimes, Jerry Houser and Oliver Conant—all hovering around the age of 15...and all superb. It also stars a girl of such blazing beauty that she lights up the screen—Jennifer O'Neill as the "older woman" of 22, who innocently stirs up their boyish curiosity in the opposite sex.

Basically, "Summer of '42" is the story of "growing up," of a trio of boys spending the summer with their families on an island off the New England coast, of their adolescent yearnings and fumbings, especially with regards to girls, their adventures, their hesitant forays into the mysteries of oncoming manhood, and the one memorable experience that one has with a more mature lady.

Like "Love Story," it will send many searching through pockets and purses for a Kleenex or two or three. But, unlike Erich Segal's sob story, "Summer of '42"—viewed through a few tears—is excruciatingly funny.

We loved it—and we've never even been a young boy on that fateful visit to the druggist for the first time.

Escape From The Planet of the Apes

First it was "Planet of the Apes" and then it was "Beneath the Planet of the Apes." Now it's "Escape from the Planet of the Apes," and anyone who has followed this film series of science fiction dillies will want to do it again at Poughkeepsie's Overlook Drive-In currently.

Dedicated buffs will remember that at the end of "Beneath the Planet," the world was incinerated in a Doomsday chain of nuclear explosions. But three bright chimpanzees—Cornelius (Roddy McDowall), Zira (Kim Hunter) and Milo (Sal Mineo)—searched out the crashed U.S. spacecraft before the holocaust hit.

Patching it together, they blast off before the atomic catastrophe reduces the planet to cinders and, flying swiftly backward through a bend in time many hundreds of years, splash down off California.

Instant Celebrities

Fished out of the surf by Americans, they remove their space helmets, and their rescuers discover they have simian—rather than human—visitors on their hands. Instant celebrities, they get put up in a swank hotel, appear on TV and at women's clubs, and tog themselves out in a mod wardrobe from the smart shops.

But when it's discovered that Zira is pregnant, selfish ole mankind worries about breeding as a threat to his security. Wouldn't be fair to divulge how it all turns out 'cause that would eliminate the surprise and suspense of this movie. You'll have to see it for yourself—and it'll entertain you royally if you're a sci-fi fan.

Other Choices

LOVE STORY. Heartache, tears and an incurable disease that snuffs out the life of a 25-year-old girl are the ingredients of this box office smash, now rolling along in its fourth week at Kingston's Mayfair. Ryan O'Neal's a rich Harvard boy who falls hard for Ali MacGraw, a poor Radcliffe girl. Most people soaked their handkerchiefs over the deathbed scene, but we found the hockey game sequence the only honest piece in the picture.

ALI MACGRAW was up for a Best Actress of the Year Oscar for her role as Jenny in the box office smash, "LOVE STORY." The film, about an ill-fated collegiate love affair is still going strong at Kingston's Mayfair Theater; is now in its fourth week there.

10 RILLINGTON PLACE. through Tuesday. Let's hope Now at the Lyceum in Red Hook this superb true-life crime drama about the infamous and drab John Christie, who murdered a lengthy list of unsuspecting women in London and buried their bodies in his house and garden. Richard Attenborough triumphs as Christie and the film is a strong indictment against capital punishment; shows how an innocent man was hung for Christie's crimes with the murderer himself the star witness against him.

WILLARD. The rats are coming! The rats are coming! And they've taken over almost every drive-in movie within motoring distance. This scary film (at Cocksackie's Hi-way, Dover Plains) Dover, Hyde Park's 9-G and Millerton's Millerton) has a nice, quiet boy (Bruce Davison) training an army of rats to kill for revenge—until the best laid plans of mice and men backfire.

WOMAN IN THE DUNES. Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema brings back this Japanese classic from Sunday

BIG JAKE and RIO LOBO. A double-threat John Wayne western bill at Kingston's Sunset Drive-In—both good for light entertainment on a hot summer night. "Jake" has Wayne pursuing the bad guys who kidnapped his grandson for $1-million. "Lobo" has him pursuing traitors to the Union after the Civil War...traitors who helped the Confederates steal a gold shipment.

THE CHEYENNE SOCIAL CLUB. Jimmy Stewart inherits a bawdy house in this western with a comic touch at Hyde Park Drive-In currently. But he's too shy a guy to really enjoy his good fortune. (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

PEGGY LEE, one of the great recording and nightclub stars of all time, will be the featured performer at Saratoga this Sunday, July 18 at 8:30 p. m. She'll take over the amphitheatre for her own "special," backed by the Main Street East aggregation. The remainder of the week at SPAC will burgeon with the brightest of ballets as the New York City Ballet Company continues its July-long residence at the upstate center.

'The Prodigal Son' And Peggy Lee, Too

The inimitable Peggy Lee makes her debut appearance at Saratoga Performing Arts Center to open the third full week of '71 events there, and the New York City Ballet follows for the remainder of the July 18-24 period, dancing new works and old in six different programs.

The sexy, smoky-voiced Miss Lee, known as one of the great performers of the era, takes over the amphitheatre at SPAC this Sunday, July 18 at 8:30 p.m., backed by the versatile, 11-man band called Main Street East.

In a career spanning almost two decades, Peggy Lee has stayed at the very top despite shifts in trends and fashions. Her silken voice has been heard on TV and in nightclubs and she has recorded 500 songs. Her all-time hits include "Manana," "It's a Good Day," "I'm a Woman," "Lover," "Fever," "Golden Earrings," "Hallelujah I Just Love Him So," "I'm Gonna Go Fishin'" and many, many more.

Along with Frank Sinatra and Tony Bennett, she has been named as one of singing's "top three." For her smash hit last year, "Is That All There Is?" She won a Grammy for Best Contemporary Female Vocalist. Currently she is high on the record charts with the sadly nostalgic "Where Did They Go?" Launched by Benny Goodman while still a teenager, she has since been heard on major TV variety shows, network specials and in major U.S. and European supper clubs and concert halls.

After Peggy's special — and highlighting the next to last week of Saratoga performances by New York City Ballet — will be:

An all-Tschaikovsky program Tuesday, July 20 at 8:30 p.m., with the big attraction the SPAC premiere of George Balanchine's sumptuously staged and costumed "Tchaikovsky Suite No. 3" set to the music of that title, along with the exuberant "Tchaikovsky Suite" and "Swan Lake," a perennial favorite.

Edward Villella in his most dramatic role as "The Prodigal Son," Wednesday, July 21 at 8:30 p.m. On the Wednesday program, too, will be "Concerto Barocco," with music by J. S. Bach, and "Who Cares?," music by George Gershwin.

The esteemed company's elegant showpiece, "Symphony in C," will be presented Thursday, July 22, along with "Tchaikovsky Suite" and "Donizetti Variations."

Friday, July 23 is a lure for fans of modern music, with such ballets featured as "Episodes," set to the music of Anton Webern; "Four Last Songs," the new work by the youthful Lorca Massine that uses the vocal writing of Richard Strauss; and, for balance, "Tchaikovsky Suite No. 3."

Rounding out the week are the Saturday, July 24 programs.

League Noon Forums As Welcome as Ever

Woodstock sculptress Grace Wapner will be guest speaker for the first Friday Noon Forum of the Art Students League.

The Forum, open to the public at no charge from 12 noon to 1 p.m., is held on announced Fridays at the League's summer school campus in Woodstock; features outstanding personalities in the arts.

Highly accomplished in the realm of avant-garde sculpture, artist Wapner, who lives and works in Shady, will be the guest speaker for this year's kick-off Forum program, scheduled Friday, July 23.

She has exhibited in New York City, as well as in galleries in the Hudson Valley and the Catskills. In 1969, she exhibited by special invitation in the widely acclaimed "8 plus 8" show at New York's Riverside Museum. Another coveted invitation came this past spring when she participated in the prestigious "26 Contemporary Women Artists" exhibit at the Larry Aldridge Museum in Ridgefield, Conn.

The League Forum speaker

studied at Bennington College, The New School, Sculptor's Workshop and the Art Students League. Youthful in years, she is considered a pioneer in the use of new materials, with emphasis on plastics, in the creation of modern sculptural forms and concepts.

Moderator for the July 23 Forum will be Woodstock artist Bruce Dorfman, a League instructor. The ASL campus in Woodstock is approximately one mile from the Village Green on Route 212 going toward Saugerties. Parking is plentiful and the Forums have long since proved one of the more delightful and enlightening events of any summer season anywhere.

DeWitt at Paltz

It's an unusual exhibition for the recently opened New Paltz Gallery currently.

Holding forth from now through Aug. 8 is a color conscious and mental lyintriguing show of the original oil paintings of artist George Clark DeWitt.

All works on view throughout the Paltz Gallery are for sale; include a wide variety of subjects from surreal paintings of Lake Mohonk Mountain House and grounds, to luminous nude studies, finely rendered pencil drawings, and conscious mental paintings of the cosmic system.

PLACES TO DINE & DANCE

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

There were thousands of visitors at Hurley Stone House Day last Saturday—some from as far as Liverpool, England; Japan; and France — yet one rarely spied a familiar local face. Perhaps Kingstonians've been there already but, more than likely, it's another case of one not ap-preciatin' what one has in his own back yard.

Among sights to have seen were: floors scarred by bayonet slashes; hidden trap doors; scalloped verge board (only one in America); iron spike witch catcher in chimney; stone walls more than 18 inches thick; children's toys carved from cigar boxes; massive hand-hewn beams; slave quarters; deep window sills and Dutch doors with original hardware; huge fireplaces; Reformed Church with pews bearing old name plates on swinging wooden doors.

One of most elegant yet livable homes is the TenEyck House, now the residence of Mr. and Mrs. William Gaffken. Bill's son Eugene served as guide; and that he had justifiable pride in his "heritage" was obvious. Especially noteworthy was Duncan Phye couch—one of nine in this country — reupholstered in fetching green and white stripes. Dining room door featured two bull's eyes which in days past were believed, superstitiously, to ward off evil spirits.

Among most historical and fascinating was Spy House. Framed advertisement offered bit of Dutch humor: "Why walk around feeling half-dead when we can bury you for $49.50—no tax. You have already been taxed to death. Use our easy lay-a-way plan. We have a good place to kick-the-bucket if you have to be shoveling off; for that price, you're expected to pull dirt in after yourself." Signed: Crockem, Digger and Plantem Morticians.

There was a photo of three middleaged ladies gathered about table; caption read: Scandal and Tea. The one incongruous item was TV set perched upon stand. However, even that suddenly fit the picture when visitor remarked, "It only shows Channel 1492."

Crispell House which is home to the Rev. Harold Schadevall family offered a most unusual ventilated kitchen cupboard, said to have been used to sleep slave babies. However, according to local tradition, it was the charming Houghtaling Tavern, restored by Mrs. Margery Larsen Kuhlmann and her father, which can boast: George Washington DRANK here.

Local garden clubs deserve special note for outstanding fresh flower arrangements in all the homes; especially lovely was purple-blue larkspur, delphinium display in the Dr. Richard TenEyck House foyer, created by Little Gardens Club of Kingston.

A gathering of friends met afterwards at John Warren home where Audria entertained at outdoor buffet in privacy of her garden and under shade of a not-so-old cherry tree. (Tree was planted 16 years ago to mark birth of son Dick who now — please note — wishes to be called Rick.)

The Warrens, who just celebrated 22 years of wedded bliss, played host to the Tom Goldstone family, John's brother Frank and children, Jean Keator (Audria's other half in Sit 'n Knit Shop); Eileen Argulewicz, sophomore at Skidmore who's working during summer at John's CTA Public Relations office on Main Street; the De-weese DeWitts whom everybody knows; Barbara Short, widow of well-known photographer Ralph Short.

Mrs. DeWitt, who recently modeled her own wedding gown, is planning a congratulatory note to TV sponsors of cold-power detergents. Seems a local cleaner refused to take a chance on cleaning her gown for fear it's disintegrate, ergo Mrs. D. washed the gown herself. And it turned out practically good as new.

While adults quenched parched throats downing homemade fruit punch, children roasted hot dogs and marshmallows on small bonfire near John's organic garden. Jean and Audria had prepared a special dessert which Jean said could be either piece de resistance or a fiasco. The former won out and guests literally scraped the bottom of watermelon shell which was filled with every kind of fruit imaginable and decorated with scoops of colorful sherbet.

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

LET'S BE FAIR!

In the more than nine months this "colyum" has been appearing, I've tried to take the bad with the good (thankfully, the good has enormously overshadowed the bad!) I've taken, printed, even tried to do something about the few complaints I've been heir to. But in the case of the anonymous note reprinted here, I've got to holler "Foul." Read first, and then I'll talk:

Hi Ernie:

Just a note to tell you that we people of Port Ewen were quite disappointed when reading your column (that) no mention of The Holy Name Breakfast for the members of Presentation Church was ever mentioned. Must you come from out of town to make your column? Or don't the members of Presentation Church mean anything to you? How about it, Ernie?

Signed,
Disappointed

The letter was dated June 27th; this column is being written last week; I don't think I have to remind you about the heat and humidity of that week. If it hadn't been so hot, and if I hadn't been so tired (come to think of it, I haven't had a vacation since Roberto's was opened!) I would have taken the trouble to go over some back "colyums" and list how many parties from Port Ewen (including, I'm sure, some Presentation Church affair) I've been more than happy to write about.

But I don't need to do that; all I need do is point out the real reason the Breakfast wasn't mentioned: Somebody forgot to fill out the TEMPO sheet which is necessary for any names to be used in this column! It's just as simple as that!

I hasten to explain that this TEMPO sheet is not a whim . . . it is required before I print anybody's name in my "colyum." Strangely enough, even if you love Roberto's I can't use your name unless you give permission! That's why we have these TEMPO sheets on the tables . . . and I assure you that nobody, but nobody, ever filled out one that didn't get into "ERNESTLY SPEAKING."

Now, about the Presentation Church Communion Breakfast; It was held on May 16th, with 59 attending; and according to those I've spoken with, it was enjoyed by all. But you must remember that I can't be at every Breakfast, Luncheon and Dinner we have at Roberto's, so unless I get a TEMPO sheet filled out, I have no way of knowing who was there.

Incidentally, we have lots of good friends who are patrons, (and patrons who have become good friends) who seldom fill out a TEMPO sheet, and then only on some special occasion.

Which is exactly the way it should be; we sometimes have as many as 1000 guests in a week; obviously, I couldn't hope to print that many names.

I hope that "Disappointed" understands now why the guests at the Presentation Church Communion Breakfast weren't mentioned!

WHICH REMINDS ME

that while we had one of the biggest weeks in our history over the July 4th weekend, we got just exactly TWO (count 'em, 2) TEMPO sheets filled out, on July 3rd!! Here they are: The Dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Luke Thompson, of Kingston, was a Double-Barrelled Firecracker: Saluting the Birthday of Luke, and being a Bon Voyage Party as the Thompsons took off for a trip to the Emerald Isle. Both Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were born in Ireland, and this is a heartwarming visit to their birthplace. Among those pleasant, in addition to the Thompsons, were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seala, of Saugerties, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sotile, of Town of Ulster, Mr. and Mrs. James Sweeney, of Kingston, and Mr. John Patrick Thompson, of Miami, Fla. Best wishes for a pleasant vacation, and would you maybe bring me a wee sliver of the Blarney Stone? . . . since so many of my friends claim that this colyum is full of Blarney! The same night, another Birthday-Bon Voyage Party was celebrated by Kay and Bob Clarke and Sally and Jerry Maroney. The Bon Voyage was for the Clarkes' July 6th Italy-bound vacation and for Sally Maroney's (34th Birthday July 7th). I refuse to reveal who called Kay "Grandma No. 1." But the same handwriting rated Roberto's: Music: Sensational; Drinks: Superb; Company: Unsurpassed. Management: The Greatest.

MISH AND MASH

I've talked myself out of time again, but I can't help enthusing about the way our "Saturday Soiree" keeps generating new steam, especially when Ed Shannon takes over the mike for his galaxy of good old oлдies, and gets joined by Dan Callanan, Fran and a lot of other familiar faces in the crowd . . . including the Delavans and Frazers and Myers and Griggs and Matthews . . . ad infinitum . . . and especially Tim Law coming back strong after a short illness. Sparked by the music of Mark Garrison Duo, they keep us all entertained far into the night. I love such carrying-ons!

OLDEST ARTIST represented in the current Woodstock Artists Association exhibit is William J. Eisner, posing here with one of his latest paintings. The show at the WAA Gallery is a salute to "Artists Over 70 in the '70s." Reserved for septuagenarians only, it's a tribute to both the formidable talent and prolific output of senior citizen artists. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

sale business in New York, using local Woodstock talent to do the sewing. Aware that the art colony now burgeons with young people who need some kind of income if they are to remain as residents, she'd like to help put all that dormant talent to work. "It would be groovy if something else came out of Woodstock today besides music," she says.

Trained in Tailored

Trained originally to do very tailored clothes (suits and coats), she now prefers "total costume" when she can't do tailored. Most of her private customers have been mature women in quest of clothes "not totally tailored but not funky either," and it makes her happy to see her clothes on people she knows and to feel they "have become a part of their personality.

While she never thinks of herself as a "devout feminist," Elaine Frank sees merit in the Women's Lib movement for women with children who need a source of income. Her projected plan for a wholesale clothing business is aimed at utilizing such women — getting them together and giving them an incentive for production, along with — hopefully — a day care center.

In the meantime, there's still the little matter of all those Playhouse costumes from now through early September. Always rush jobs done on a small budget and with only a short time for preparation, she bemoans the fact that their "finishing is never quite proper," but is proud that they're "durable enough to last through the play."

With a luxurious month to plot and plan, stage costumes could be exquisitely detailed and explicit. Alas, however, summer stock allows only one brief week—so its' do the best you can in a hurry. Working with cheap fabrics (she buys them for 36 cents a yard but keeps their source a secret), she still manages to turn out a wedding dress here, a WAC uniform there, a vampire cloak, a Roman courtesan's toga, a peasant skirt and a mod number of flowing fluidity in between.

That her costumes are a success is amply demonstrated by the reaction of the Woodstock audience and the intermission-time comments and conversation. In spite of budgetary problems, her stage clothes have a flair all their own. They are distinctly Elaine Frank originals. They are not copies of Chanel (who she considered "out of sight"), or of Yves St. Laurent (who she used to like but now thinks of as a "little stifled"), or of Ozzie Clark, the very young, very big, English designer she now admires most.

They are clothes designed, cut and supervised by Elaine Frank and they bear her very personal trademark—one to be reckoned with in fashion's future.

NOEL HARRISON

A Suave Britisher In a Hit Mystery

Writing a hit murder mystery for the stage is almost as rare as actually committing the perfect crime. Getting one of the handsomest and most talented young Britishers in the business to the Hudson Valley to play the lead is probably just as difficult.

But Agathie Christie has written a flawless stage vehicle in "MOUSETRAP," so fantastically successful that it's been running on the London boards for 19 unbelievable, non-stop years. Now it's coming to the Hyde Park Playhouse to delight and entertain area audiences. And Hyde Park producer Peter O'Rourke may have pulled off the casting coup of the season in persuading Noel Harrison to be his star.

"MOUSETRAP," a clever, tense, sophisticated thriller, opens at Hyde Park this Monday, July 19; will run through Saturday, July 24. Noel Harrison, as much a favorite star of the younger generation as his father, Rex, has been for older playgoers and movie fans, promises an able and personable performance. A highly entertaining and competent actor, he proved extremely popular in the television series, "The Girl from U.N.C.L.E." and in several video specials.

One of the Best

"MOUSETRAP" is the second presentation of the 1971 star

season at Hyde Park, and it is one of the best mysteries in the history of the theater. To testify any further as to its plot—or say more about the onstage action—would be a crime in itself against the pleasure and surprise of the prospective audience.

Suffice it to say that there's one suspense bonus after another in this truly great thriller. Suavely British, it's a superlative mystery. You'll enjoy every moment of its plot; you'll be totally taken with Noel Harrison; and you'll find the Playhouse (originally built in 1901 by Stanford White as a stable for Frederick Vanderbilt) one of the most beautiful summer stock theaters anywhere.

Sculpture Scene

INTERACTION SCULPTURE, titled "Earth Cathedral," by Geo of Highland, was exhibited in the recent National Association of Women Artists' Annual at New York City's National Academy Galleries. The Hungarian born sculptress studied drawing, painting and sculpture with her artist-art school operator father. Since coming to the U. S., she has concentrated on sculpturing; pioneered "positionable" sculptures. Working mostly in cement (for its durability) since her interaction sculptures are meant to be worked with or positioned by gallery-goers, she has created sculptures varying in size from two or three pieces to a dozen.

Dooley, are Residents-in-Charge of the Jane Burr Winslow House of Woodstock Artists Association, a haven for visiting artists and students.

Paula Nelson studied at Syracuse University and on scholarships at the Art Students League from 1964 to 1968. Uniquely versatile, she is skilled at Leroy lettering, drafting and inking; has inked animated cartoons for television, completed architectural drawings for college students and worked as a stock market book charter. With her husband she toured Europe — visiting museums and churches, and has made numerous painting trips to Monhegan Island, Maine.

Artist Nelson has exhibited locally in group shows at the Art Students League, Woodstock School of Art, Woodstock Artists Assoc. and Burr House. But the variety of knowledgeable approaches and economy of means shown in this single small exhibit at Rondout Bank will surprise art-lovers and demonstrate this artist's bright discrimination and highly developed sense of selectivity in conveying her most poetic impressions.
